Attempted Murder

Dootson Fit For Trial

An all-male Victoria assize court jury last night found Peter Howard Dootson fit to stand trial on a charge of attempted murder.

The jury deliberated for 10 minutes on whether Dootson was, by reason of insanity, unfit to stand trial.

Dootson, a psychiatric nurse's aide at the Colquitz Mental Home, is charged with the attempted murder Oct. 19 of Robert Robinson, 58, a fellow employee.

BLUNT INSTRUMENT

He is accused of attempting the murder with a blunt instrument and by setting fire to Robinson.

Four witnesses were called Monday, including three psychiatrists and the chief psychiatric nurse at the mental home.

DIMINISHED

Dr. Ian Kenning, who has been observing Dootson for the past week in the psychiatric ward of Jubilee Hospital, said Dootson had a diminished awareness of the implications of the charge.

He said Dootson does not always understand A causes B and is not always aware of his own actions in relation to other people.

AMNESIA CASE

He said Dootson was suffering from amnesia covering the time between a car accident in September, 1961, in which he suffered a fractured skull, and Oct. 19, 1962, the night of the attempt.

Red Cross Reject

Can't Give Blood Away

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Hector Bedard has too much of a good thing—blood.

He has so much that he tries to give it away. But now hospitals charge him for the withdrawals and the Red Cross is unwilling to accept his donations.

* * *

Bedard, 44, has polycythemia, a condition in which the body produces more blood than necessary.

When he learned this two years ago he began having a pint withdrawn every two months at Hartford hospital. Eventually the hospital began charging $7.50 for each visit.

Other hospitals also imposed a fee on the grounds that he was technically a patient instead of a regular blood donor.

His physician says Bedard's blood is acceptable for use in transfusions but the Red Cross doesn't want any of it.

* * *

"The mere fact that it is necessary for this man to have his blood taken," said Julius Early, director of the Connecticut Red Cross blood program, "makes him unacceptable to the Red Cross. The Red Cross is not qualified to practice medicine . . . in this case we would be competing with the medical profession."

Italian Speculation

Khrushchev Slipping?

ROME (AP) — A Moscow dispatch to an Italian Communist newspaper aroused speculation Monday that Premier Khrushchev and the Soviet leadership are involved in serious internal trouble.

The dispatch from Moscow to the newspaper L'Unita says the Soviet capital is "living in a delicate political moment."

The Communist newspaper does not mention Khrushchev by name, but spoke of "grave problems" and economic failures.

Two Italian news agencies, both reflecting opinion of Italy's Christian Democratic Party, report Khrushchev under mounting fire for his policies regarding Cuba, Communist China and Soviet agriculture.

IN MINORITY

The Roman Information Agency quotes Communist circles as saying Khrushchev recently had been put in a minority at the Kremlin by a group of opponents headed by Mikhail Suslov, member of the presidium of the Soviet Communist party central committee. The agency says Communist circles felt Khrushchev might soon be ousted.

SPREADING WORD

Italia, the other agency carrying the reports, says Italian Communist deputies were spreading the word that Khrushchev was facing mounting opposition and losing supporters daily.

NO SIGN IN MOSCOW

In Moscow, informed western observers said there was no outward sign there that Khrushchev is in any particular difficulty.

He has been vacationing at the Black Sea since mid-March. Somalia ambassador Ahmed Mohammed Adan, who visited the premier Monday, said he "seemed very relaxed."

Laotian Leftist Assassinated

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Foreign Minister Quinim Pholsena was assassinated Monday night after attending a royal reception given by King Savang Vathana to promote peace among Laotian factions, government sources said today.

They said the left-leaning Quinim was shot down by unknown assassins while entering his home in downtown Vientiane.

His wife, at his side, was reported wounded in both legs by the assassins' bullets.

King Vathana in a speech had appealed to feuding Laotian factions to patch up their differences and strive to re-establish peace in this still divided country.

Quinim, 48, joined the coalition government last June as a member of Premier Souvanna Phouma's neutralist party. However, he created many enemies and became a controversial figure in Laotian politics by later following a leftist course.

He associated himself closely with the pro-Communist Pathet Lao faction.

Quinim had just returned to Laos with the king after visits to nine of the signatory countries of the Geneva accord guaranteeing Laos' neutrality.

He jumped on the bandwagon of Capt. Kong Le when that paratroop commander led a revolt against the Vientiane government in 1960. Since then Quinim had risen steadily while Kong Le's star faded.

Raiders Near Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—An exile commando group reported Monday night that one of its raiding boats was nearing Cuban shores.

"The captain radioed us at 6 p.m. that the boat was 40 miles from Cuba and we assume it is completing its mission," said Dr. Orlando Bosch, co-ordinator general of the anti-Communist Cuban Escambray front army.

Bosch said his group would file a legal protest that a companion boat was seized in international waters.

Bosch said the two boats left five days before the U.S. state department issued restrictions against raiders. Such restrictions were issued in Miami Saturday.

Sabotage Stalls Diefenbaker

BOMBS AND BOOS

Quebec Rails Blasted?

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker's whistle-stop campaign through Quebec was threatened by sabotage of a rail on the CNR line south of Quebec City Monday and delayed by fears of tampering with CPR tracks near here Monday night.

The prime minister was delayed more than 1½ hours for Monday night's scheduled rally at nearby Cap-de-la-Madeleine when the CPR ordered the speed of his train reduced to a maximum 15 miles an hour between Ste. Anne de la Perade and Trois-Rivieres.

Conductor C. L. McElligott said orders from Montreal warned the crew to "keep sharp lookout for possible defective track and approach facing points (switches) and bridges cautiously."

NAMELESS CALLER

An anonymous caller told The Canadian Press and RCMP in Quebec City earlier that the train carrying the prime minister would be blown up at Ste. Anne.

Ste. Anne is only about 20 miles north of Lemieux, where damaged CNR tracks were replaced Monday before a train carrying Mr. Diefenbaker from

Socreds Urge Moratorium On Elections

RED DEER, Alta. (CP) — Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson called Monday for a one-year moratorium on federal elections.

He said in an interview his party will support whatever government is elected in the April 8 election for at least one year, maybe longer.

"We can't have another election immediately," said the Social Credit leader, adding that some moratorium "will have to be declared."

Mr. Thompson repeated earlier predictions no party will win a majority in the coming vote.

Speech Delayed Nearly 15 Minutes

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liberal leader Pearson stood up to hundreds of foot-stomping, chanting, anti-nuclear demonstrators Monday night and made a speech after accusing them of trying to wreck the democratic process.

Pandemonium reigned in the cavernous Forum and he was unable to begin speaking for some time. Hundreds of cardboard pieplates and paper darts filled the air. A "no nuclear arms" chant drowned him out.

But the Liberal chieftain, talking back to the organized demonstrators, finally got the upper hand and went on to pledge action to "put people back to work," a June budget and six other pieces of legislation as soon as parliament convenes — providing he is elected.

FOUND SUPPORT

He found his partisan support in the jammed, 7,200-seat Forum by getting resounding "no's" when he asked whether the crowd wanted Socialism, minority government or a breakup of the Western Alliance.

But at the outset anti-nuclear demonstrators stole the show. Cheers and boos drowned out those who attempted to speak. Fights broke out among the spectators. The combatants were hustled away by security guards.

PERRAULT HECKLED

Provincial Liberal leader Ray Perrault tried for five minutes to introduce Mr. Pearson. As Mr. Pearson walked on stage, 12 men sitting side-by-side high under the rafters at the far end of the Forum rose and swept back their jackets.

Each wore a white vest with a red letter spelling out the words: "No Nuclear Arms."

Cheers and boos rang out. Mr. Pearson stood silent. The crowd screamed "We want Mike." Photographers left the platform to photograph the crowd scenes.

DROWNED OUT

Three times Mr. Pearson called out over the microphones: "Mr. Chairman . . ." Each time the anti-nuclear group stood again for the cameras and again Mr. Pearson was drowned out by screams from the audience.

He said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I hope . . ." Then he said: "May I begin by saying . . ."

Twelve minutes later he was still trying to speak.

"The Liberal Party does not need the kind of support . . ." he said, then, "We want peace . . ." as only fragments of his words could be heard above the pandemonium.

WORKED FOR PEACE

When he could make himself heard about 15 minutes after striding to the platform, he shouted:

"I don't want to boast, but there's nobody in this audience tonight, who has worked harder for peace over the years than I have. I have fought for it in peace and I'll go on fighting for it . . ."

The Forum, which usually holds 5,000 persons for hockey games, was ordered closed by the fire marshall one hour before Mr. Pearson arrived, with more than 7,200 in the building.

Outside half a dozen bans-and-bomb contingents milled, augmented by a group of Sons of Freedom Doukhobors. Inside, party workers and firemen patrolled the crowds.

Much of the audience apparently came to heckle. Half an hour before Mr. Pearson appeared, noisemakers began to rattle in the stands. When the orchestra played a South American selection a voice yelled "How about Cuba?"

YANKEE DOODLE

The orchestra swung into show tunes and somebody yelled "Play Yankee Doodle."

The band played "With a Little Bit of Luck" and a heckler yelled "You'll need it."

In front of the stage were 15 press tables, all filled. Five newsreel cameras recorded the Canada Another Cuba?

MONTREAL (CP) — New Democratic leader T. C. Douglas said Monday night the real reason the United States wants Canada to take nuclear warheads for Bomarc missiles is to establish the principle of nuclear arming in this country.

There, he said, the Americans will have opened the door to still more advanced nuclear carriers into Canada. This might lead to the introduction of offensive missiles and "it could make Canada a second Cuba in the world chess game."

Mr. Douglas laid heavy emphasis on the nuclear question in a 30-minute address to 4,000 boisterous supporters in the Paul Sauve Arena.

Police estimated the crowd at just over two-thirds of the arena's 5,700-seat capacity.

The NDP leader was carried into the hall on the shoulders of two husky supporters led by a blaring boys' band. The obviously partisan crowd, one of the noisiest Mr. Douglas has encountered in his campaign, gave him a wild welcome.

Tidal Wave 35 Feet In Charlotte Islands

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—Reports reached here Monday of a 35-foot tidal wave that hit the remote west coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands, tore oil tanks from concrete bases and apparently took the life of a man.

Police were continuing their search for Heinz Carl Schnober, 31, believed lost at sea when his kayak capsized in the swell.

The tidal wave caused extensive damage at Weah Point near the village of Masset. Similar high seas also hit Langara Island, northernmost point in the isolated Charlottes.

Department of transport officials believe the wave originated in Bali, recently hit by volcanic eruptions, and sped across the north Pacific.

Syria Orders 18-Hour Curfew

DAMASCUS (AP) — The revolutionary council Monday clamped an 18-hour daily curfew throughout Syria to halt massive demonstrations by supporters of President Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Syrians scurried off the streets amid sub-machine-gun fire. Worried tourists kept to their hotels or fled to Lebanon.

Voters in Ontario Searching Souls

By SAMUEL LUBELL
(Seventh of a Series)

Perhaps the most dramatic single battle of this election campaign is being fought out in traditionally Conservative homes of Ontario.

In the suburbs of Toronto and Hamilton as well as the middle and better income sections of Kitchener and London a third of the Conservative voters I have interviewed talk of breaking against Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

Nothing like this degree of vote shifting is taking place anywhere else in the country.

Nowhere else, as well, have I found anywhere as much voter turmoil as in these hitherto staid and placidly Conservative families.

* * *

Often the person being interviewed would begin by lamenting, "This is a terrible election. We've never been so confused," or "In the past we always knew how we would vote. It's never been like this."

Then the objections to Mr. Diefenbaker would pour out:

"He's so irresponsible he makes me ashamed I am a Canadian."

"I can't stand to look at him on TV. He's always acting when he speaks."

"He's out on a limb sawing off our relations with the United States."

* * *

Some Conservative families are still bitterly divided.

In Guelph a doctor's wife said, "My husband is afraid the stability in the government will wreck our economy, but I feel like a traitor voting Liberal."

"We don't want to kill off each other's vote," she added. "So we argue night after night. Still we can't agree."

* * *

Such reactions point to what has become the central struggle on which the election outcome hinges. To win a majority the Liberals must sweep 60 of Ontario's 85 seats, which would be more seats than the Liberals carried even at the peak of their political power.

Whether this can be done depends on how deep is the revolt against Mr. Diefenbaker among Ontario's normally Conservative voters.

This revolt is drawing fuel from three main sources: disagreement over the prime minister's economic policies and budget deficits; a violent dislike of Mr. Diefenbaker personally, and a widely held concern that "he's fouling things up with the United States."

* * *

Fairly sharp economic lines fence off the defections against Mr. Diefenbaker. They run

Ontario Tories Split

highest in better income neighborhoods, among business executives, professional people, white collar and government employees.

As one moves into worker neighborhoods the break against the prime minister drops sharply.

It vanishes completely among farmers.

This identical pattern shows up in virtually every province in Canada but is most marked in Ontario.

The personal complaints voiced about Mr. Diefenbaker by these Conservatives centre around the belief that "he can't make up his mind" and "he's bent on remaking the Conservative party in his own image."

Like de Gaulle

In Kitchener an accountant's wife snapped, "Diefenbaker acts as if he is the Conservative party, like de Gaulle almost or Louis XIV.

"When a man's own cabinet ministers resign there must be something wrong with him" is another frequently expressed criticism.

While much of the anxiety that Mr. Diefenbaker is hurting relations with the United States is tied to the nuclear warhead dispute, some Conservatives cite earlier "squabbles."

Need U.S.

An industrial engineer in Wentworth, outside of Hamilton, argued, "Diefenbaker must be replaced. Whenever the States have trouble, like with the Cuban crisis, that's when he decides to show how independent he can be. We need the States, when they need us is when we should come through."

Actually the anti-Diefenbaker feeling in Ontario boils higher even than is indicated by the defections to the Liberals. In the Toronto suburb of Leaside, a retired salesman stormed:

"I could kick Diefenbaker in the teeth. He's not a leader. He just sits on the fence. I don't believe in changing my party just for that. We should vote Conservative and then take Diefenbaker and impeach him."

For other Conservatives the emotional conflict is deepened by a violent dislike for Liberal leader Lester Pearson.

"I'd vote Liberal if anyone else were the leader," a quite common reaction. Some voters go on to criticize Pearson as "two-faced" and "an opportunist" or "he'd do anything to become prime minister."

Tories Torn

Still other Conservatives are torn between their "disgust" with Diefenbaker and the feeling that "I could never vote Liberal." Asked why they find it so difficult to vote Liberal, some reply, "That's how I feel."

Others explain, "I don't like this Quebec agitation for a new flag" or "I guess I was brought up to think that the Liberals are for the Catholics and Protestants are Conservatives."

Some Conservatives, in fact, are shifting to the New Democratic Party because "we certainly need a change and I'd never vote Liberal."

Vote for Tories

So strong is this emotional struggle agitating many Conservative households, it is not surprising that some Conservatives have decided "I'll give Diefenbaker my vote after all" despite earlier misgivings.

In London a safety consultant recalled, "For a time I thought the government was falling apart. But Dief has pulled things back together."

Still others share the view of a nurse in York-Scarboro who confessed, "I want so much to vote Conservative. If only this nuclear arms issue could be cleared up."

scene. Mr. Pearson was picked up on eight microphones.

When he finally began getting through on the microphones at the start, Mr. Pearson said that if he was not given the opportunity to speak it would be "a defeat of the democratic process."

"That is an abuse of freedom by those people who shout the loudest for freedom.

"Heckling is part of the democratic process. Howling is no part of the democratic process."

The howling then subsided slightly but then the foot stomping began with renewed vigor.

BLOCKED BY POLICE

At one point, a man about 25, tried to run to the platform carrying the stars and stripes. He was blocked by police and forced back. He finally threw the flag into the air.

Ten minutes later, Forum guards wrestled to the floor a man who tried to open a path to the rostrum for a second man carrying a banner reading: "49—merchant fleet scuttled."

They too were turned back.

REGRETS ATTITUDE

It was at this point that Mr. Pearson said:

"I regret very much indeed that the leader of any party would not be allowed to make a statement . . . by a group trying to break up the meeting.

Shouting over the anti-nuclear chanting, Mr. Pearson said he would not, no matter how much he was howled at, do anything to weaken the Atlantic alliance.

Repeating his nuclear policy, the Liberal leader said that Prime Minister Diefenbaker's attitude has been "irresponsible and hypocritical."

AMMUNITION NEEDED

Now that the government had accepted the Bomarc missile as a commitment to Canadian allies, he said, the ammunition should be provided for it. He said that if the Bomarc is no good "why didn't he (Mr. Diefenbaker) scrap it years ago.

"This weapon is not a Liberal weapon," he said.

He promised this action in the first 60 days of a new Liberal administration:

- Action for investment expenditures and setting up new machinery of government "to bring jobs and full employment through expansion of production."
- A bill to establish a municipal development and loan fund. He said this could mean 200,000 new jobs in Canada.
- A June budget "with fiscal and tax provisions to stimulate production and jobs."
- A bill to set up a department of industry.
- A bill to establish a national development corporation.
- A bill to set up a national economic council.
- A bill to strengthen — through provision of a capital fund—the present Atlantic development board.
- A bill to establish a federal agency "for development of economically-backward areas."
- Action to establish a contributory pension plan.
- Action to strengthen national unity by setting up a national commission on biculturalism.
- Action to set up an all-party committee of the House of Commons on defence policy.

Mr. Pearson said that a medical care plan also would be created but it would be expensive and would have to be paid for from an expanding economy with full employment.

MEDICAL PLAN

"I am confident, however, that a medical care plan can be introduced in the first parliament of a new Liberal administration," he said.

Earlier the Liberal leader made his entrance to Vancouver with a Squamish Indian talking stick and a motorcade procession 15 miles into the city in which ban-the-bomb demonstrators competed with pretty girls in open cars.

He said Dootson had a diminished ability to understand what had happened and was happening to him as a result of the injury, and had defects in his thought processes which interfered with his judgement.

DAMAGE SIGNS

Dr. George Milton, another psychiatrist who examined Dootson extensively, said tests had shown him to have a good deal of explosive feelings and signs of trying to control these feelings intellectually. He said he showed several signs of organic brain damage.

On a question from defence attorney Alan Bigelow, he established Dootson's amnesia was genuine.

Ernest Groome, chief psychiatric nurse at Colquitz, said Dootson had seemed confused and had a vacant look about him just before returning to work following the accident.

Dr. Douglas Alcorn, psychiatrist, when asked by Crown prosecutor Alan Baker if Dootson were aware he is charged with attempted murder, answered he was.

"Does he know it (attempted murder) is wrong?" said Mr. Baker.

"Yes," said Dr. Alcorn.

"Does he know he'll go to jail if he is found guilty?"

"Yes."

Dr. Alcorn said Dootson was capable of understanding evidence within reasonable limits and could understand advice.

He agreed with Dr. Milton's evidence and said Dootson was capable of instructing his counsel.

NEW JURY

Dr. Alcorn said Dootson had expressed horror at the acts of Oct. 19.

Mr. Justice J. S. Aikins suggested a new jury be called from the panel of jurors in order to avert risk of prejudice among the present jurors due to the fact they had heard much hearsay evidence during the trial.

Both attorneys agreed and the new jury will be drawn at 11 a.m. today.

Quebec Rails Blasted?

Ottawa to Quebec City passed through.

A CNR spokesman in Montreal described the Lemieux incident, in which the top part of a 25-inch section of rail had been "cut off somehow, possibly by dynamite," as sabotage.

The spokesman said iron fragments, pieces of wire, a battery and a pair of pliers were found near the tracks.

On a nearby freight shed were the letters "FLQ" in fresh blue paint. They stand for Front de Liberation Quebecois (Quebec Liberation Front), a radical group which says it is responsible for recent minor bombings of armories in the Montreal area.

LOUD EXPLOSION

The track apparently was dynamited Sunday night, when station master Mrs. Eva Doucet and her daughter were awakened by a loud explosion.

The damage wasn't noticed until a freight train passed over it and noticed a "rough spot." It was repaired about an hour before Mr. Diefenbaker's train passed through.

FOLLOW TRACKS

Police found tracks leading from the rail line into a forest and from there into the village of Lemieux, 65 miles southwest of Quebec City.

The CPR train involved Monday was regular train 155 from Quebec City to Montreal.

It was stopped for 43 minutes in Ste. Anne de la Perade while police checked out reports that it was going to be blown up.

Two CPR policemen were aboard as it started slowly across a bridge near the station and on to Trois-Rivieres at the reduced speed.

For two cents I'll leave town.

Don't go away mad.

Just go away. In a Volkswagen.

You'll come back smiling on the money you saved going.

The Volkswagen averages 38 miles to a gallon of gas. In fact we've heard a few owners claim 50 mpg. (They're either very good drivers, or a little weak at mathematics.)

The Volkswagen is small change in other departments too.

For a start, the oil never needs topping between changes. And even when it is time for a change, two and one-fifth quarts will do it.

When it comes to the cooling system, your expenses come to zero. The radiator can't boil over or spring leaks or freeze up because there is no radiator. We cool our car with air instead of water.

On a long trip your thoughts may turn to service and replacement parts. Don't worry. You can be miles from nowhere and still find VW service. (We have 346 dealers right across Canada.)

As a matter of fact, why not test drive a Volkswagen at your nearest dealer now? And since it only costs him a couple of pennies, feel free to head for the city limits.

Britons Capture Castro-Fighters

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Backing up United States opposition to sneak attacks on Cuba, a royal navy warship moved in on a small Bahamian island Sunday night and captured a group of anti-Castro raiders.

The British colonial secretary's office in Nassau announced that 17 Castro fighters had been taken into custody on a small cay in the Exuma Island chain, 350 miles from Miami and about 200 miles north of the Cuban coast.

The capture previously had been reported here by a Cuban exile group, the Cuban Anti-Communist Army. Its report said American and Royal Navy warships and planes participated in the action.

HMS Londonderry, a 2,150-ton anti-sub frigate just transferred from Bermuda to patrol duty in the Bahamas, was reported on the way to Nassau with the captives.

The exile group said that one of its boats, laden with arms and ammunition, had been taken but that a second boat had escaped.

Half-Pay Vow Vote-Getter

LONDON (UPI)—The opposition Labor party today issued a policy document called New Frontiers for Social Security, which pledges half-pay for the unemployed, the sick and old-age pensioners.

Labor, convinced it can topple Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservative government, believes its blueprint for a new welfare state will be a solid vote-getter.

Police Quiz Chief's Wife

Tory Stand 'Confirmed'

CAP - DE - LA - MADELEINE, Que. (CP) — Statements by Defence Secretary McNamara of the United States about the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile have "confirmed the stand of the Diefenbaker government 100 per cent," the prime minister said Monday night.

Mr. McNamara's testimony to a Senate committee, made public last week, in effect says that the Bomarc is useless, Mr. Diefenbaker told a rally attended by about 1,150.

AT NO TIME

Nobody will ever know why Liberal Leader Pearson did a "somersault" — deciding to accept nuclear warheads for Canadian weapons, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

But at no time had a Progressive Conservative government agreed to accept nuclear warheads, whereas the Liberals would have two decoy Bomarc bases at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que., to draw the inter-continental ballistic missile fire of the Soviet Union in the event of a nuclear attack.

The arena had 1,300 chairs and about 300 were empty.

A crowd of standees at the rear thinned out as the meeting progressed and a conversational hum and poor acoustics blurred Mr. Diefenbaker's address in French and English.

Political Holiday

FREDERICTON (CP) — Premier Louis Robichaud has asked all Liberal candidates in the April 23 provincial campaign to suspend political activities for four days during Holy Week.

Suspension of campaigning would run from Holy Thursday, April 11, through Easter Sunday, April 14.

Flying Poll Visits Overseas Servicemen

OTTAWA (UPI)—A flying polling booth started making its 2,700-mile rounds in the Congo Monday as Canadian armed servicemen began voting in the April 8 general election.

Members of the armed forces are casting their ballots during the week before election day so they may be collected and flown to Ottawa before 9 a.m. April 9.

In the Middle East and Central Africa Canadian voters numbered 950 soldiers and airmen with the UN Emergency Force and 300 in the Congo.

Douglas Demands Even Tax Shares

MONTREAL (CP) — T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, said Monday the federal government and the provinces should share eventually on a 50-50 basis the revenue from personal and corporation income taxes.

He said provincial governments must be guaranteed sufficient revenues to fulfil their obligations in the fields of education and social security.

Reading from a prepared statement, he said:

"The federal government must reduce progressively its share of revenue and enable the provinces to receive, as a first step, 40 per cent of personal and corporation income taxes."

Elaborating during the question period, Mr. Douglas said that the provincial share of the corporation and personal income taxes should be increased by one per cent a year until it reached 50 per cent.

Grit Impropriety

IT HAS BECOME an accepted custom in any national election campaign for candidates seeking votes to give their own political party credit for all good things that have ever happened. And by and large, if these claims are not too exaggerated, the electorate accepts them as part of the tongue-in-cheek game of politics.

Despite this generous leeway allowed by the voting public, Victoria's Liberal standard-bearer David Groos has overstepped the mark in his statement that the local Kiwanis Village received its first federal aid through the efforts of a former Liberal member of Parliament.

The truth of the matter is that the Kiwanis Village has never at any time received either grants or financial aid from the federal government. The Village, which provides accommodation for elderly pensioners, was built and is maintained through a provincial government grant and by annual public subscriptions.

If any credit for the Village is to be given it must go to the members of the Victoria Kiwanis Club who sponsor and manage it, the B.C. provincial government, and the thousands of citizens (of every political hue) who give so generously each year to keep it going. But, certainly, no thanks are due the Liberal Party, nor any other political group for that matter.

Mr. Groos' statement was misleading and his political tactics in attempting to use a non-political organization to further his cause is little less than reprehensible. It is to be hoped that he will publicly correct his impropriety.

Justified Opposition

IT IS UP TO the provincial pollution control board to decide, on the conflicting evidence presented to it, if Saanich should be allowed to go ahead with a sewage plant discharging treated effluent through Colquitz Creek into Portage Inlet or should be limited to the choice between a more expensive system and the retention of septic tanks in the area concerned.

Councillor Joseph Casey's post-hearing contribution to the argument—that Victoria should not oppose the Saanich plan because the city itself is discharging raw sewage into the lower reaches of the Gorge waterway—can hardly affect the board's consideration. Nor should it affect the public view of the proceedings, for it is much richer in resentment than in logic.

The councillor has every right, indeed a duty, to suggest that the city halt the fouling of the lower Gorge waters if the situation is as he represents it, and likewise that pollution from the Esquimalt and View Royal shores be cured if a health hazard can be found. Actually for several years now, regular tests have shown the Gorge to be safe for swimming at the popular locations above Selkirk Water.

But whether or not their own faults are real and of consequence, Victoria, Esquimalt and the Metropolitan Health Board were fully justified in opposing the Saanich plan since on the advice of their experts they came to the conclusion that it presented a new danger to the recreational waterway. It was in the interests of the entire Greater Victoria area that the Saanich proposal was challenged and evidence and argument on both sides laid before an impartial board. Councillor Casey's view, however, seems to be that two wrongs would make a right.

A Triumph

IF VICTORIA is a criterion there is little lacking in the bodily fitness of Canadians, young or old. That was amply proved over the weekend when nearly 300 entrants in the Colonist walkathon met the challenge of the U.S. Marines training standard of 50 miles in 20 hours and beat it hollow.

Some of the performances were astonishing, the winner and the close runner-up actually cutting the time in half, and no fewer than threescore of the walkers covered the distance in less than 20 hours. The majority of them completed at least half the course.

When it is realized that walking is not in great fashion nowadays and that the entrants, ranging in age from 14 to 80-odd years, and comprising boys and girls, men and women, are not normally hikers, these results are little short of amazing. They tell something of the spirit and resilience of those taking part.

It has been said often of late that Canadians, and especially Canadian youth bred to the automobile age, are soft and physically unfit. The Saanich Peninsula walkathon demonstrated the falsity of this notion. Most of the marchers were young people and they showed a tenacity and stamina that did all of them great credit.

The idea of the multiple march staged by this newspaper was not to provide entertainment or a spectacular stunt, although it aroused public interest in itself, but to test the fitness of representative citizens. In this sense the march was a triumph. Young and old the response was splendid, and it illustrated that in Victoria for one the people are in good shape.

To walk even ten miles is something; to cover 20, 30 and 50 miles as so many did in such quick time is worthy of high commendation. They should in fact "tell it to the Marines."

The Birds Are Back

ACTUALLY the gulls follow the tourists but it was the sign of "Follow the Birds to Victoria" that for several decades put this city on the tourist map, particularly across the line. It was a mistake ever to drop such an attractive slogan.

It is pleasing to note therefore that the "Visitors' Bureau," or whatever name is finally given to the new local publicity bureau, has decided to resurrect the theme and give it its former prominence.

This traditional tourist lure may not have been entirely submerged, as claimed, but certainly it fell into desuetude, and the signs have not been kept in order in outside areas as once they were. Presumably it will be part of the new bureau's business to restore them and arrange the contracts necessary to ensure that they are widely shown and thus given the emphasis they warrant.

The gulls still accompany the ferries which bring the tourists and it is in keeping with the local tourist trade, and a proved valuable asset, that "Follow the Birds" should once more be proclaimed far and near.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax . . ."

By TOM TAYLOR

REMEMBERING that two decades ago he made me rise from the radio feeling a good two inches taller I am always alerted when I see his name.

You will guess easily who I mean—Sir Winston Churchill.

So that a news item from Hawaii concerning him instantly roused me to notice. That fledgling state of the U.S. union has honored the British immortal by declaring him to be its honorary citizen, and in so doing has honored itself.

Shortly, it may be expected, Sir Winston will become an All-American. The U.S. Congress has bestowed honorary citizenship on this great English but universal figure and the formal presidential decree will consummate this act of grace.

And Winnie, as he is so affectionately known, will thus add further to his long list of distinctions.

* * *

Never surely has one pair of shoulders had to bear so many accolades. Had he not been bowed down by time and personal achievement he would alone be overwhelmed by the awards conferred on him.

I took a few minutes to dissect the tabulations opposite his name in Who's Who. They fair took my breath away.

In his own country he is a K.G., P.C., O.M., C.H., F.R.S., M.P. He is an Hon. R.A., Hon. R.B.A., F.I.R.B.A., Hon. F.R.C.S., F.Z.S. F.R.S.L. F.R.G.S., F.J.I., Hon. F.I.O.B. to name but a selection. He is colonel or honorary colonel of a dozen regiments. He is or has been rector, chancellor, president, fellow, bencher or patron of as many varying institutions.

He is a Man of Kent, a Liveryman, and the Warden of the Cinque Ports. He is the possessor of medals galore, military, literary, academic. He has been a prizewinner in numerous realms.

* * *

And beyond the confines of his own sceptered isle, cities and nations have hastened to inscribe his name on their rolls.

He must have at home enough scrolls, medallions, freedom caskets, framed tributes, symbols, et al, to fill a museum. What does a man of his ilk — although few there have been of his ilk, if any other — do to house all such treasures of recognition?

He is a freeman of Edinburgh, London, Brussels, Antwerp, Aberdeen, Westminster, Luxemburg, Blackpool, Birmingham, Ayr, Leeds, Darlington, Belfast, Harrow, Manchester, Perth, Aldershot, Brighton, Strasbourg, Bath, Hastings, Dead, Dover and other towns.

Cuba, Paris, Athens, Marathon, Jacksonville, Nancy — these and other centres have made him an honorary citizen. He holds the gold medals of New York, Amsterdam and Rotterdam. He is a Grand Seigneur of the Hudson's Bay Company, and is the recipient of honorary degrees from Oxford, Rochester, Leyden, McGill, Harvard, Belfast, St. Andrew's, Copenhagen, New York State, London, Miami, Cambridge, and other universities.

* * *

Decorations of other differing kinds have poured on Sir Winston from Belgium, the Netherlands, France, Norway, Denmark, France, Spain, Nepal, the U.S.A.

It would take twice the space at my disposal to list in full the varied distinctions that are writ opposite the name of this one man. The foregoing is but a sample of his honors and awards, but enough to cause one to pause and wonder afresh at the extent of his versatility and the activities that have drawn such widespread tribute.

Hawaii, which includes the Union Jack in its state flag, thus joins a notable array of societies, towns, institutions and countries which have felt it an honor to claim as their associate this scintillating figure of British and world history.

Truly he is unique, as Who's Who verily makes plain.

Dragon's Teeth or Plowshares

By E. B. BOURDILLON
(Last of Eight Articles)

THE word "idiot" comes from Greek meaning "A private person, not engaged in public affairs—a plebeian." The term is surely applicable to the private citizen of today who, while fearing nuclear war, takes no steps to avert it. It also seems to apply to most university teachers throughout the world. As Bagehot said, "The academies are asylums of the ideas and the tastes of the last age."

Thus, although the retiring and the incoming presidents of UBC have described the prevention of nuclear war as our first responsibility, the changes in curriculum needed to implement this are not yet evident. And in most universities the professors seem to remain aloof in their ivory towers, confident that their duties as teachers do not extend beyond their own narrow specialties.

Nationalism Taught As History?

Consider the average history department. The professors must know that the schoolchildren in each country are taught that in past wars valor and virtue were leading on their own side, and the other country was always wrong. Witness the absurd differences between the British and American school versions of the War of Independence, or the British and French histories of any century. Thus we prepare the way for future wars. And the definition of a patriot as "one to whom the interests of a part seem superior to those of the whole" is as neglected as Edith Cavell's warning that "patriotism is not enough."

Should not the university historians in all countries be trying to get their colleagues to agree on a textbook giving a short world history acceptable to every nation?

The common demand that "a man should learn the history of his own country first" is also dangerous, since it gives people an exaggerated view of the importance of their own country. Arnold Toynbee, in his volume "Reconsiderations," mentions that one critic of his 12-volume world history complained that only one-sixth as much space was given to England as to Egypt.

Toynbee comments that he does indeed stand convicted of "fantastic" disproportion; "fantastic because the proper proportion would be, not one-sixth, but something nearer to one-sixtieth."

Again, history shows how mankind through the ages has learned to coalesce into larger and larger groups. Students should be shown the importance of this, and the need for world federation with a single world government, if wars are to be avoided.

The Teaching of Foreign Languages

It has long been evident that language differences were a major factor in keeping peoples apart. Yet attempts to introduce a second language common to all nations, have been constantly frustrated, and the language departments of universities have given little help. They might have emphasized the absurd waste of time and effort involved in learning multiple languages, or in struggling to do without them at international conferences. Instead, dazzled by the beauty of their particular languages and literature, they have been blind to the greater issue — human unity.

A Practical Improvement in the Curriculum at UBC

Suppose that UBC decided to take the president's warnings seriously, and began to change from sowing the dragon's teeth of outworn ideas, to more humane attempts to sow plowshares. Even as soon as next autumn, they could replace the compulsory English 100 and 200 by a small number of lectures on the great literature of the world, and could use the time thus saved to make every freshman study (and be examined in) the causes of war, and the methods of preventing it in future.

Such a course should include studies of population growth, of the work of the FAO, and of the genetic differences and similarities between nations.

In addition the students should study and discuss the effects of clinging to full national sovereignty (i.e. to international anarchy), the purpose and effects of immigration laws, and of such obstacles to world federation as the right of veto in the U.N. Security Council, and the important "Connolly Amendment." This amendment, passed by the U.S. Congress in 1946, excluded from the jurisdiction of the International Court of Justice "disputes with regard to matters which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of the United States of America as determined by the United States of America."

Surely our educators could take that much trouble to lead us into less foolish ways. As Brock Chisholm has said: "There is no evidence that the barriers to world co-operation are inborn or inherited, or are anything more than the result of training in childhood."

From the Scriptures

He judged the cause of the poor and needy; then it was well with him: saith the Lord. —Jeremiah, 22:16.

The Packsack

It Takes Only One

By GREGORY CLARK

DRIVING in from the airport with a relative from Texas for my passenger, I was embarrassed, in the rush hour traffic, to have to brake violently a couple of times when home-going hustlers cut in ahead of me, though we were all going fifty and better on the throughway. And when, in due course, we saw ahead of us a mile-long line of traffic stopped dead still, we knew that some hustler had probably sideswiped a fellow motorist, or that there had been a rear-end collision; and that it would be a good twenty minutes to an hour's delay for us while the police arrived and straightened out the tangle, allowing us to proceed.

The reason for my embarrassment was that in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and such states, driving discipline is not only most strictly enforced, but what is more important, the residents of those regions have a perfect understanding of how ridiculous it is for one man, one measly man, to hold up hundreds, if not thousands of his fellow men by his single folly.

"Possibly," conceded my Texan, "you-all haven't been driving long enough up here in Canada."

You-all is good. It only takes one fathead in a hundred or five hundred motorists to disrupt what could be, and what is, in Texas, a perfectly sensible flow.

Political Manoeuvres

By OTTO VON HABSBURG

ALL the signs now point towards the start of an important Soviet manoeuvre. By this we do not mean political and diplomatic gambits, but Moscow's efforts to condition the psychological atmosphere for spectacular initiatives.

There are two facts which gravely hurt the U.S.S.R's reputation: The Communist government's attitude towards religion and the brutal repression of all popular and democratic movements. It is hence understandable that every propaganda offensive should concentrate on these two questions.

The efforts to appease religious forces began soon after Khrushchev's congratulatory telegram to Pope John XXIII and by the unexpected arrival at the Vatican Ecumenical Council of observers representing the Moscow Orthodox Patriarch. It is certain that the Russian Church would never have dared to take such an initiative without a direct order from the Kremlin.

More spectacular still was the release and subsequent trip to Rome of the head of the Ukrainian Catholics, Archbishop Slypij. Then Khrushchev's son-in-law, Mr. Adshubei, asked for an audience with the Pope. It is well known that the Soviet editor is frequently called upon to make exploratory missions for the Red dictator. Well informed circles, furthermore, expect conciliatory gestures towards the religious communities in Eastern Europe and especially towards highly placed ecclesiastical personae who were hitherto victims of persecution. We might mention also that the Communist parties of Europe are spreading the rumor that Khrushchev will ask to call on the Vatican during his forthcoming Italian trip.

While thus the offensive in the religious field is going ahead, mainly with symbolic gestures that cost little, the measure towards an easing of domestic tensions are still at their beginning. Let us note nevertheless that certain Eastern European governments have eased travel restrictions imposed on their subjects. Furthermore, rumors concerning amnesties for political opponents of the Communist regimes seem to have some foundation. Before the end of the spring some prisoners might be liberated in Hungary, a measure which would also facilitate Mr. U Thant's visit to Budapest.

All these facts taken together show the trend of the Kremlin's present diplomacy. Its goal is to improve Russia's standing in the eyes of world opinion in view of the approaching East-West negotiations. Politically, Moscow's position is not favorable, due to the heavy handicaps represented by the Chinese conflict and the deplorable economic conditions. The Reds thus try to win at least the propaganda battle.

This basic situation must be understood by the West. Nothing would be more dangerous for the cause of the Free World than to take at face value moves which, for the time being at least, are only manoeuvres of political warfare. It is not words that count but only deeds.

Cranky Spaceman

A Fair Test?

From The Ottawa Journal

THE word from the University of Maryland, where Mr. Whilden Breen has endured four of the six months he is to spend in a pretend space ship, is that astronauts are likely to get irritable on long trips.

Is it a fair trial?

Mr. Breen's space ship is an apartment 12 feet by 12 feet. There are no windows looking out, but batteries of television cameras looking in.

Mr. Breen has chores to do. When a buzzer sounds he must turn on a light on one side of the room and then dash across the room and flip some other switches.

If he wants a cigarette he must press a button several times. At first the button had to be pressed 80 times. But the people in charge decided that was spoiling Mr. Breen, so they fixed it to make him press the button 500 times for each smoke.

Looking through their TV monitors they observed that Mr. Breen became irritable. Mr. Breen, who is trying to get a novel written in between pushing buttons and running around the room flipping switches, said he thought 500 button pushes for one cigarette was a waste of time.

Which just shows the strange sort of attitude a man can develop when he is alone too long.

But maybe Mr. Breen was not in the proper state of mind for this adventure. He had been married six months. He volunteered for the job. And any man who after only six months of marriage wants to go into six months of solitary must be in a bit of a mood to start with.

Oddly, though, he so far hasn't said he'd prefer to return to wedded bliss.

Soviet Art

Reasons To Fuss

By MARK FRANKLAND
from Moscow

MANY people may well have been puzzled by the frequency of Mr. Khrushchev's attacks on features of Soviet literature, music and painting recently. Mr. Khrushchev, after all, is a busy enough man without having to bother himself about jazz, a few semi-abstract paintings and some avant-garde poetry.

However since the day last December when Mr. Khrushchev inveighed against what he called "formalism" and "abstractionism" in painting, he has twice, together with other Soviet leaders, assembled the Soviet Union's creative intelligentsia for a talking to. And Mr. Ilichev, his right-hand man these days in ideological matters, has also had a separate meeting with young writers and artists.

* * *

Why all the fuss? There is one basic reason. In Russia almost all human activity comes within the scope of the work of theories about the present and its plans for the future. If a painter paints a picture concentrating on the formal arrangement and description of his subject matter to express his own emotions about it, he is likely to run into criticism on several lines. First, he will have offended the canons of socialist realism which, as interpreted today, demand a more or less straightforward representation of reality in paintings, though not photographic imitation.

Secondly, he may be accused of forgetting "partiinost," which means, roughly, party-mindedness. In other words, the painter does not interpret reality as the party does, and his picture does not help the party in the construction of Communism as all Soviet art is meant to do.

* * *

But granted that the party does make these clear demands (which at times have been ignored either intentionally or when the party's attention was elsewhere) why is the present crackdown interpreted as of basically political significance? There are two answers to this. First, since Stalin's death 10 years ago, in the arts in general, but in literature in particular, the party has allowed two sides to develop (they can be called "progressives" and "conservatives") which have more or less publicly argued their case. They have been basically arguing about de-Stalinisation, how much, how quickly and what it really means.

But—and this is the second answer—it is very hard to limit the de-Stalinisation process to the arts. The case of Ilya Ehrenburg shows this only too clearly. Ehrenburg's memoirs have been appearing in the monthly magazine Novy Mir for the past two years. As he has got nearer to the present day, their political content has become clearer. Among other things he has, by implication, challenged the present party leadership's interpretation of the Stalin period and more or less challenged the current line that even the people who worked closely under Stalin (some of whom still govern the country) did not know of the depth of Stalin's iniquities till after his death.

Mr. Khrushchev had something important to say on this subject in his speech to the writers and artists gathered together in the Kremlin. He was discussing what would happen if the Ehrenburgs had their way and opposition to "bourgeois" culture was relaxed ("peaceful co-existence in the sphere of ideology" is the official name for this heresy). "In the first place," Mr. Khrushchev said, a blow would be inflicted against our revolutionary achievements in the field of social art." According to the logic of battle the matter would hardly end there. It is not out of the question that these people, having gathered their forces, would go on to criticise the achievements of the revolution"—that is, the political achievements of the party.

* * *

Some Western observers here feel that the present crackdown is not unconnected with the problem of Soviet-Chinese relations and with some leaders who have succeeded in persuading Mr. Khrushchev to follow a stemer line at home. Others think that the degree of non-conformity among writers and artists had reached such a pitch by the end of last year that Mr. Khrushchev anyway had to step in to re-assert the party's authority.

What the observers will be looking out for here in the next few months are signs of silent resistence to the new line. How many of the "progressives," young and old, will publicly announce allegiance to Mr. Khrushchev's Soviet Union up till now has been the abandonment of terror and violence as methods of persuasion. How will he persuade these people to think differently?

Space Committee Told:

Russia Now Has Ability To Send Man to the Moon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A U.S. space expert told inquiring congressmen Monday that he believes Russia now has the ability to send a man to the moon.

The United States' first manned flight to the moon is believed at least four years away.

Norman Petersen, technical director of the air force flight test centre at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., told the House subcommittee on manned spaced flight that if the Russians give major emphasis to a single lunar mission, using earth-orbital rendezvous, they would have the ability to accomplish this at the present time.

"Then you wouldn't be surprised to see the Russians going to the moon tomorrow?" asked Rep. Emilio Daddario, D—Conn.

"No," Petersen said.

SEPARATE LAUNCHINGS

The space expert told the subcommittee, headed by Rep. Olin Teague, D—Texas, that the Soviets would probably take 10 to 15 separate rocket launchings to put a number of heavy components into orbit under the rendezvous technique. These would be joined while they circled the earth and formed into a lunar voyage vehicle during a period Petersen estimated at about 10 days. He said the Russians probably will make their first manned trip to the moon a "fly-by," which would zoom past the planet and return to earth.

LETTERS to the Editor

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be on subjects of general interest, not more than 300 words in length, and, if signed with a pen-name, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

We too have encountered much the same attitude as "Puzzled" on this offshore island. If the natives have kind hearts, they keep them well hidden.

Their dismal lives are written on the disgruntled faces of the mature women one sees everywhere. Victoria is sadly lacking in warm, kindly people.

Apparently they love humanity, but hate people. One found so many "deaf" persons about when one would remark on the beauty of the day though the animal creatures are treated as if they are sacred.

A STRANGER.

Friendly Approach

"Puzzled" complained that Victoria people are very unfriendly. Perhaps she herself is a little remiss and is not prepared to meet people half way. I recollect a saying, "Friendliness begets friendliness," and I find it works.

Walking the streets of Victoria I find most of the people who pass me, if I meet their eyes, give me a friendly smile and perhaps comment on the weather, to which I reply in kind. Perhaps I may have a friendly approach and I hope that I have.

I live in an apartment block and although I was warned when I first came to stay here, "Don't expect people there to be neighborly or friendly," I find they are friendly. My conclusion is that "Puzzled" has the wrong approach. I consider Victorians are friendly people. Just one person's opinion against another's—and to "Puzzled" I say, try a smile.

Well Described

The public hearing at Royal Oak on apartment rezoning in Cadboro Bay was well-named, since it was almost entirely the "public" who did the "hearing." Apart from Reeve Murphy and Councillor Todd, who do have a sense of responsibility regardless of their private opinions, it was obvious that the other four Saanich councillors had come with their minds already made up on the question of the high-rise apartment, and didn't listen to a word.

I can only think that Ogden Nash had such as these in mind when he wrote:

"And I have no desire to get ugly,
But I cannot help mentioning that the door of a bigoted mind opens outwards so that the pressure of facts upon it is to close it more snugly."

Saving the Fisheries

Scraping bare the coastline fishing grounds is like scraping bare the prairies' topsoil. Therefore, how can we prevent both the Japanese and our local fishermen from turning our lush fishing grounds into a marine desert as has been done in other countries?

Here is a suggested remedy:

Admit that nowhere in the world have fishermen overcome "the predatory phase" of human development. Therefore, strict regulations by treaty should be enforced.

The new treaty should be between all countries with seafronts on the Pacific Ocean. A fishing treaty without Russia and China is as absurd as it is wrong.

Conservation of all fishing grounds should be given top priority.

Strict penalties should be enforced against those using equipment which destroys immature fish and the marine vegetable growth in offshore fishing grounds.

Scientific methods — free from politics—should be used in all countries party to the treaty, in solving problems affecting fishing grounds and the conservation of fish.

Costs of policing fishing grounds, and the scientific research work, should be paid from the profits of the combined fishing industry.

Incredible

President Kennedy is quoted as saying that "we can never be secure on this hemisphere until Russia goes the way of George III, the Spanish conquerors and the Emperor Maximilian of Mexico."

Coming from the president of the United States this is the most incredible statement I have ever read in a fairly long life.

According to all the leading authorities the giant and fantastic rockets with nuclear warheads are poised both in Russia and the United States and a few hours after the outbreak of hostilities scores of millions on both sides would be dead and the survivors would be crawling out of the ruined cities.

Rather than spend money on any meagre weapons that Canada can afford it would seem that we should organize what resources we have to assist the surviving Americans.

There are nearly one billion people living under the brand new fanatical religion of Communism. Would it not be the part of wisdom to discover some method of living on this finite planet with these people rather than commit mutual suicide?

ICONOCLAST.

World Government

The confrontation between Kennedy and Khrushchev over Cuba on October 27, 1962, projected into stark reality the one critical issue for all governments and all peoples today: human survival. It is vitally important that this message be clearly understood. All other questions by comparison are either transient or irrelevant or dishonest.

There is only one solution. The explosive situation where human survival depends on the sanity or emotional stability of two men—two fingers on two triggers—must be replaced by world government. Only in this way may international law be enforced by supra-national force. The rule of law is the only answer to homicide be it single or megadeath. It is now no longer a question of whether we ought to have world government, but how quickly can we make it work.

International law backed by effective force is the only hope for rescuing a humanity otherwise doomed. In today's world of megatons, megadeaths and overkill, all discussion of national defence in a nuclear war is irrelevant and time-wasting.

Imports Cheaper Any Day

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

The surcharges imposed upon Canadian imports last June as a drastic measure to stop an attack on the Canadian dollar were finally, and completely, removed Monday.

The removal, announced Saturday by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, means the tariffs and customs in force before June will be restored on all items.

MORE ESSENTIAL

The start toward the movement that now brings Canada back into line with its GATT agreements came some time ago, when surcharges were withdrawn from more essential import lines.

The new withdrawals affect everything. Cars, clothing, household appliances and liquor are among the main items.

The Ontario liquor control board announced almost immediately its surcharges on foreign liquors would be removed without delay, and in B.C. the LCB said it would be a matter for the government to decide by order-in-council.

CUTS ANNOUNCED

Two leading European car firms, Volkswagen and Renault, said they would reduce their Canadian prices immediately. The Volkswagen cut was up to $100.

As a result the price of most imports should be reduced fairly quickly in the stores.

They will not, however, return to the prices before June, because the Canadian dollar then was trading at about 92 cents. Today it is pegged at 92 cents, and there is no intention of taking it "off the leash."

As a consequence, importers will still have to pay for their imports with a dollar worth about five cents less than it was a year ago.

Mr. Diefenbaker pointed out his government was able to end the surcharges by the strength of the Canadian dollar and the strong gold and U.S. dollar reserve.

RECORD HELD

At Feb. 28 Canada held a record $2,360,000,000 in gold and U.S. dollars compared with only $1,108,000,000 last June.

Mr. Diefenbaker added he expected the more favorable level of the Canadian dollar would be sufficient to keep the national balance of payment in line.

"We intend to continue it (the pegged dollar) because it means prosperity for every Canadian," said the prime minister.

STILL IN EFFECT

One important emergency measure still in effect is that of duty-free imports by Canadians travelling abroad—$75 for travellers returning from the U.S. and $100 from overseas. Before June the amounts allowed Canadian travelers was $300 duty free.

These have considerably reduced the consumer purchases of Canadians abroad and have materially assisted in righting the tourist trade balance.

Car Wrecked Driver Injured

In fairly good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital is Barry Slagboom, 8685 Marshall, following an accident Sunday on Patricia Bay Highway near Island View Road.

He suffered a broken jaw and possible skull and leg fractures when his car left the road and plowed into a gravel bank. His rear-engine French car was a total wreck.

Mayor Hailed As Press Runs Again

New York City

NEW YORK (UPI) — The last of New York's blacked-out newspapers returned to the stands Monday calling Mayor Robert Wagner the hero of the settlement which ended the 114-day dispute.

"We want to express our gratitude to Mayor Wagner for the key role he played in bringing the newspapers back to the stands," the Journal-American said, praising his "untiring patience and perseverance."

"We hope the people of New York appreciate the service he has performed for the city."

The World-Telegram and Sun made "two quick observations:

"Are strikes the only solution to economic questions?

"If any one man deserves credit for ending the mess, it was Mayor Wagner. He never gave up."

Rustproofing?

We spill more than others use—to keep your Rambler young for years

Canadian winters can very quickly turn your car into the wallflower of the used car lot. Rust and corrosion take years off a car's value. We've seen figures that say it can cost you up to $100 a year in repair bills.

Rambler checks rust and corrosion before it starts. Here's how:

GALVANIZING For 1963 all Ramblers have 75% more galvanized metal than before. This is concentrated in critical areas such as the rocker panels which are constantly exposed to salt.

DEEP-DIP The entire car body is submerged into six separate tanks. Each time, a solution cleans, scours and prepares the surface of the metal.

PRIMER DIP The car is dipped again, right up to the roof, in rustproofing primer paint. It gets more rustproofing than any other Canadian car. (And we spill, literally, more than others use.) The body then receives a second primer which is sprayed on. Well over 15 pounds of rustproofing primer now coat the steel. After this, the primer paint is baked on.

TRIPLE ENAMELLING A chip-resistant, salt-resistant super enamel is sprayed and baked on. A second and third coat follow immediately, then are baked to a durable gloss.

SEALING A corrosion-inhibiting wax compound is sprayed inside girders, rocker panels and fenders. A sealer compound is also sprayed on critical underbody areas to provide additional protection.

Sounds elaborate? It is. This process makes your Rambler the most completely rustproofed car in the world. It cuts depreciation, rust-out repairs and repainting costs. And it keeps your Rambler a pleasure to behold, years longer. Come time for a new Rambler, you'll be amazed at your trading power. For a run-down on all the Rambler features that give "maximum usefulness to the user," see your nearest dealer soon.

FULWOOD, England—Charles Somerville got sick and tired of walking home in the dark, so he installed a street lamp in front of his home. B.C. Power Fights On

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

The intention of B.C. Power Corp. is to continue its fight for better treatment from the B.C. government for the takeover of its interest in B.C. Electric.

B.C. Power's annual report just issued to shareholders includes a message from A. Bruce Robertson, chairman, in which he says "the corporation's principal endeavor is to obtain for its shareholders fair treatment for the expropriation of the common shares of the electric company.

MIGHT AND MAIN

"And to this end the directors and officials of the power corporation, and its legal counsel, are striving with might and main."

Most of the report is concerned with the progress of the long-drawn-out hearing of the B.C. Supreme Court which terminated Feb. 25. A verdict from the judge is being awaited.

The B.C. Power action seeks to have the court declare the takeover was ultra vires, or alternatively the court should set the rate of compensation for the expropriated shares.

DIVIDENDS PAID

Net income for B.C. Power Corp. during 1962 was $1,535,601 (32 cents a share) and of this 25 cents was paid out in dividends for a total distribution of $1,193,003.

Annual general meeting will be held in Vancouver April 25.

* * *

WORKERS TO SHARE

Employees of Aluminium Ltd., Canada's largest aluminum company, are to be given an opportunity of sharing in the profits of the company.

A supplemental compensation plan has been drawn up by the company and, subject to the ratification of shareholders, will be introduced immediately.

The plan will make provision for supplemental compensation to "employees who, through the quality of their performance or the character of their service, contribute substantially to the success of the enterprise."

RESERVE FUND

To provide the funds for such rewards to employees, Aluminium Ltd. proposes to set up a reserve fund which would be fed by the allocation of one-10th of the excess of net income after six per cent return has been credited to the capital of the company.

The plan will provide profit-sharing opportunities not only for employees of Aluminium but also of its subsidiaries including Alcan.

* * *

STRONGER BASIS

Net profit of Falconbridge Nickel Mines in 1962 was $19,382,637 ($4.11 a share) compared with $17,096,380 ($4.52 a share) in 1961 when there were 1,042,938 fewer shares outstanding.

H. J. Fraser, president, said the company's merger with Ventures Ltd. had strengthened its financial position.

* * *

SHAREHOLDERS SELL

Canadian Celanese shareholders have sold more than 50 per cent of the shares of the company to Canadian Chemical Co. at 50 cents a share.

The announcement was made at Canadian Chemical's annual meeting by M. W. MacKenzie, chairman. He said the cash offer to Celanese shareholders expired March 18, but a share exchange offer would remain open until April 8.

Easier in Canada Higher in U.S.

Stock market prices were generally higher yesterday in New York and easier in Canada.

A feature at Toronto was weakness of Gunnar Mines which announced it had insufficient ore left to complete its contract of uranium to the U.K. Gunnar shares fell 70 cents to a 1963 low of $3.25.

SOME UTILITIES

Canada Cement and Moore Corp. were other Canadian stocks to lose ground but the banks, some utilities and a number of oils were stronger.

At Vancouver Western Mines was a very strong favorite rising to 3.75 in active trading. Cowichan at .97 also was stronger.

The bond market as a whole was firmer with small gains in government issues.

ALSO HIGHER

At New York, motors led the parade, and Chrysler was not only the most active stock but also the strongest as it closed 4¾ points ahead at 96¾. Ford and General Motors were also higher.

Steels, tobaccos, chemicals, airlines and drugs made progress as investors found their New York papers full of encouraging economic news. The New York press was getting its first run after being strikebound 114 days.

Extra Flights For Students

Trans Canada Airlines put on an extra flight Saturday for University School Students who were leaving on Easter holidays to all parts of Canada.

HMCS Sioux Fastest

HALIFAX (CP) — The navy's monthly magazine Crowsnest says HMCS Sioux is the fastest destroyer-escort in the navy. Despite her Second World War vintage, Sioux cranked up 28½ knots in December, 1961. No other destroyer-escort has exceeded the speed since.

Two Nominated

George Carpenter and Charles Schule have been nominated in Nanaimo to serve as members-at-large on the executive of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union.

'I Don't Care'

MOSCOW (UPI) — Authorities in Moscow have broken up a gang of teen-age delinquents led by a woman that specialized in robberies and terror-thefts from young and middle-aged women, press reports said Monday.

The young gang's activities were reported in the Soviet press in one of the rare public admissions here of a juvenile crime problem.

TOOK SHOES

The gang threatened girls and women with knives, stole pocketbooks, money and watches and took the shoes off women on the street. At times, the juveniles even prowled along fashionable Lenin Avenue where many foreign diplomats are housed.

A 24-year-old woman, whose name was not disclosed, was said to have directed the group, whose members ranged in age from 14 to 18.

Accounts blamed "I don't care" attitudes on the part of teachers, parents, police and Young Communist League authorities for the teen-agers' drift into crime.

Thirteen of the gang had been expelled from schools. Three members were said to have been members of the Young Communist League.

Ever Hear of a "DIURETIC"?

Maybe not. But you should know what a "diuretic" does. There may be times when you should use one. You likely understand how important the kidneys are in maintaining good health. Also that if the kidneys fail to function properly excess acids and waste material remain in the system. This may result in subsequent urinary irritation and bladder discomfort, often followed by backache, tired feeling and disturbed rest.

This is when the diuretic service of Dodd's Kidney Pills may be helpful. Dodd's act as a diuretic stimulant to help restore normal kidney action, and so relieve the systemic condition causing backache and tired feeling. When you are bothered by backache and tired feeling due to lazy kidney action you can depend on Dodd's Kidney Pills as many thousands have done during the past 70 years. Look for Dodd's at any drug counter.

Road Builder Paid, Probe Told

Church Work Done

By TERRY HAMMOND

Two men were paid $4,000 by a highway contractor to work on Highways Minister Gaglardi's Kamloops church, the legislative highway probe committee learned yesterday.

The evidence was brought out by highways department counsel Angelo Branca in his examination of Fred Bell, a former accountant for companies involved on controversial Trans-Canada Highway Project 819.

REPORTS IN 1959

Mr. Branca asked the witness if it wasn't well known as a result of newspaper reports in September, 1959, that two men employed by a Project 819 contractor had worked on Calvary Temple in Kamloops.

Mr. Bell replied he had no personal knowledge that the men worked on the church, but had read it and been told it was so.

The accountant had told the hearing Friday some $4,000 in cheques for two men had been sent to Highways Minister Gaglardi's Kamloops home. He said the cheques were prepared from time sheets submitted by Anthony Gaglardi and were not addressed to the minister.

Mr. Bell agreed with Mr. Branca it could not influence the price of the project as far as the highways department was concerned.

WORK IT DID

He said the firm was paid for the work it did and not for the number of men it employed.

At one point Jim Rhodes (NDP—Delta) asked the accountant if he had reported to income tax authorities the men's pay was not a legitimate charge against Project 819.

But before he could answer, Mr. Branca objected the question was irrevelant and a charitable donation would not be taxable in any case.

Examination of the accountant was continually interrupted by committee wrangling over its terms of reference and the admissibility of hearsay evidence.

Dan Campbell (SC—Comox) at one point said government members were only too glad to ask questions on a broad range of subjects when they couldn't find something wrong with Project 819.

"I think there's been enough shown wrong with 819 that you had better be quiet," snapped Opposition leader Strachan.

SENTENCE TRAILED

Chairman Irvine Corbett (SC—Yale) got into the argument with "We haven't found anything definitely wrong as far as . . ." but he let the sentence trail off unfinished.

The committee will hear Mr. Bell testify again this morning.

The committee is also scheduled to decide what to do about Burton Lymburner, a key witness who said from California he wouldn't come here to testify before any "mud-slinging committee."

POSSIBLY SEATTLE

Committee counsel Lloyd McKenzie suggested yesterday Mr. Lymburner might be asked to come to Seattle where he could give sworn testimony in answer to whatever questions the committee liked to submit.

Mr. McKenzie said he would travel to Seattle to meet Mr. Lymburner and proceed with the examination.

Mr. Lymburner said he would only come to B.C. to testify before a royal commission.

'Machine' Fails to Halt Calls to Zoo's Mr. Fox

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Telephone Company Monday received 755 hoax calls to the zoo asking for Mr. Bear, Mr. Fox, Mr. Lyon and Mr. Wolf. The company, in a hoax of its own, had announced that a mysterious invention, the "glassoresonator" would be used to head off the April Fool calls, but it failed and the calls kept coming.

Saanich Youth

'I Couldn't Believe' Death of Hunter

VANCOUVER (CP) — An RCMP corporal told an assize court jury Monday how a man said he had mistaken a Saanich youth for a moose and shot him through the head.

Andrew Bolton, 51, is charged with criminal negligence in the use of a firearm in the death of Garry Quick, 18, member of a Chilcotin hunting party last November.

"So help me, I could not believe my eyes, and I still can't," RCMP Cpl. Peter John Humphries quoted Bolton as saying.

Bolton had said he and two lads saw moose tracks in the snow. The party split, criss-crossing the tracks at various points as they closed in on a cow moose and her calf.

The witness said Bolton told him he spotted what he thought was the calf through the trees. He checked through his rifle's telescopic sight and saw what he thought were the head and ears.

Cpl. Humphries said the man told him he fired a shot and the "animal" slumped to the ground. He walked to the scene and found Quick dead.

MEMO

An Important Message For All Canadians

Now that the election campaign is nearly over, I would like you to have an absolutely clear statement of the most important points in the Liberal program. This program was announced at the start of our campaign. We have stated this program to the voters of every section of the country. It has not changed. Our opponents have tried to distort it and misrepresent it; but the Liberal Party alone states clearly our national objectives and offers a step-by-step, first-things-first program to achieve these objectives.

The future of Canada now depends on a majority government — a government with enough members, enough ability and enough courage to manage Canada affairs properly.

You remember that the Conservative government collapsed in a wave of resignations from the Cabinet; Mr. Harkness, Mr. Hees, Mr. Fulton, Mr. Sevigny, Mr. Fleming and Mr. Halpenny. It was lack of decision, agreement and leadership in the Cabinet that prevented the last government from managing the nation's business.

There is hard work ahead for the next Cabinet, for the next Parliament. There are no easy solutions to the problems that have to be solved.

The Liberal Party has men and women of ability, integrity and courage to take on this great challenge.

In asking for your support to elect a majority government, we of the Liberal Party are committed to the following objectives:

(1) We will restore the respect and reputation of Canada throughout the world. We will regain the trust and goodwill of our two closest allies and customers: Great Britain and the United States of America.

(2) We will honour the pledges made to each other by the founding races of Canada at Confederation and restore harmony and mutual respect among Canadians of all origins.

(3) We will honour the commitments of the government to the United Nations; in NATO and for the defence of this continent. We will establish an all party parliamentary committee on defence without delay.

(4) We will take action to expand Canada's productive capacity so that there will be work for everyone willing and able to work.

(5) We will devote the full energies of the government to putting the finances of the nation in order. We must stop digging ourselves deeper and deeper into debt and work towards a balanced budget. We must start producing more of the things we need ourselves. We must sell more of what we produce to other countries.

(6) We will initiate a contributory pension plan for Canadians — a plan that will not be an added drain on government revenue because it will be a genuine contributory social security measure.

(7) We will introduce national health legislation in co-operation with the Provinces and the medical professions. The costs will have to be paid out of increased revenues generated by an expanding economy.

(8) We will generate more opportunities for our young people with extensive training and retraining programs in co-operation with provinces, labour groups, management. We will encourage our young people to stay in school for the better training.

My personal pledge to the voters of Canada is to restore dignity and decisiveness to the government of our country. I ask for your support on April 8th.

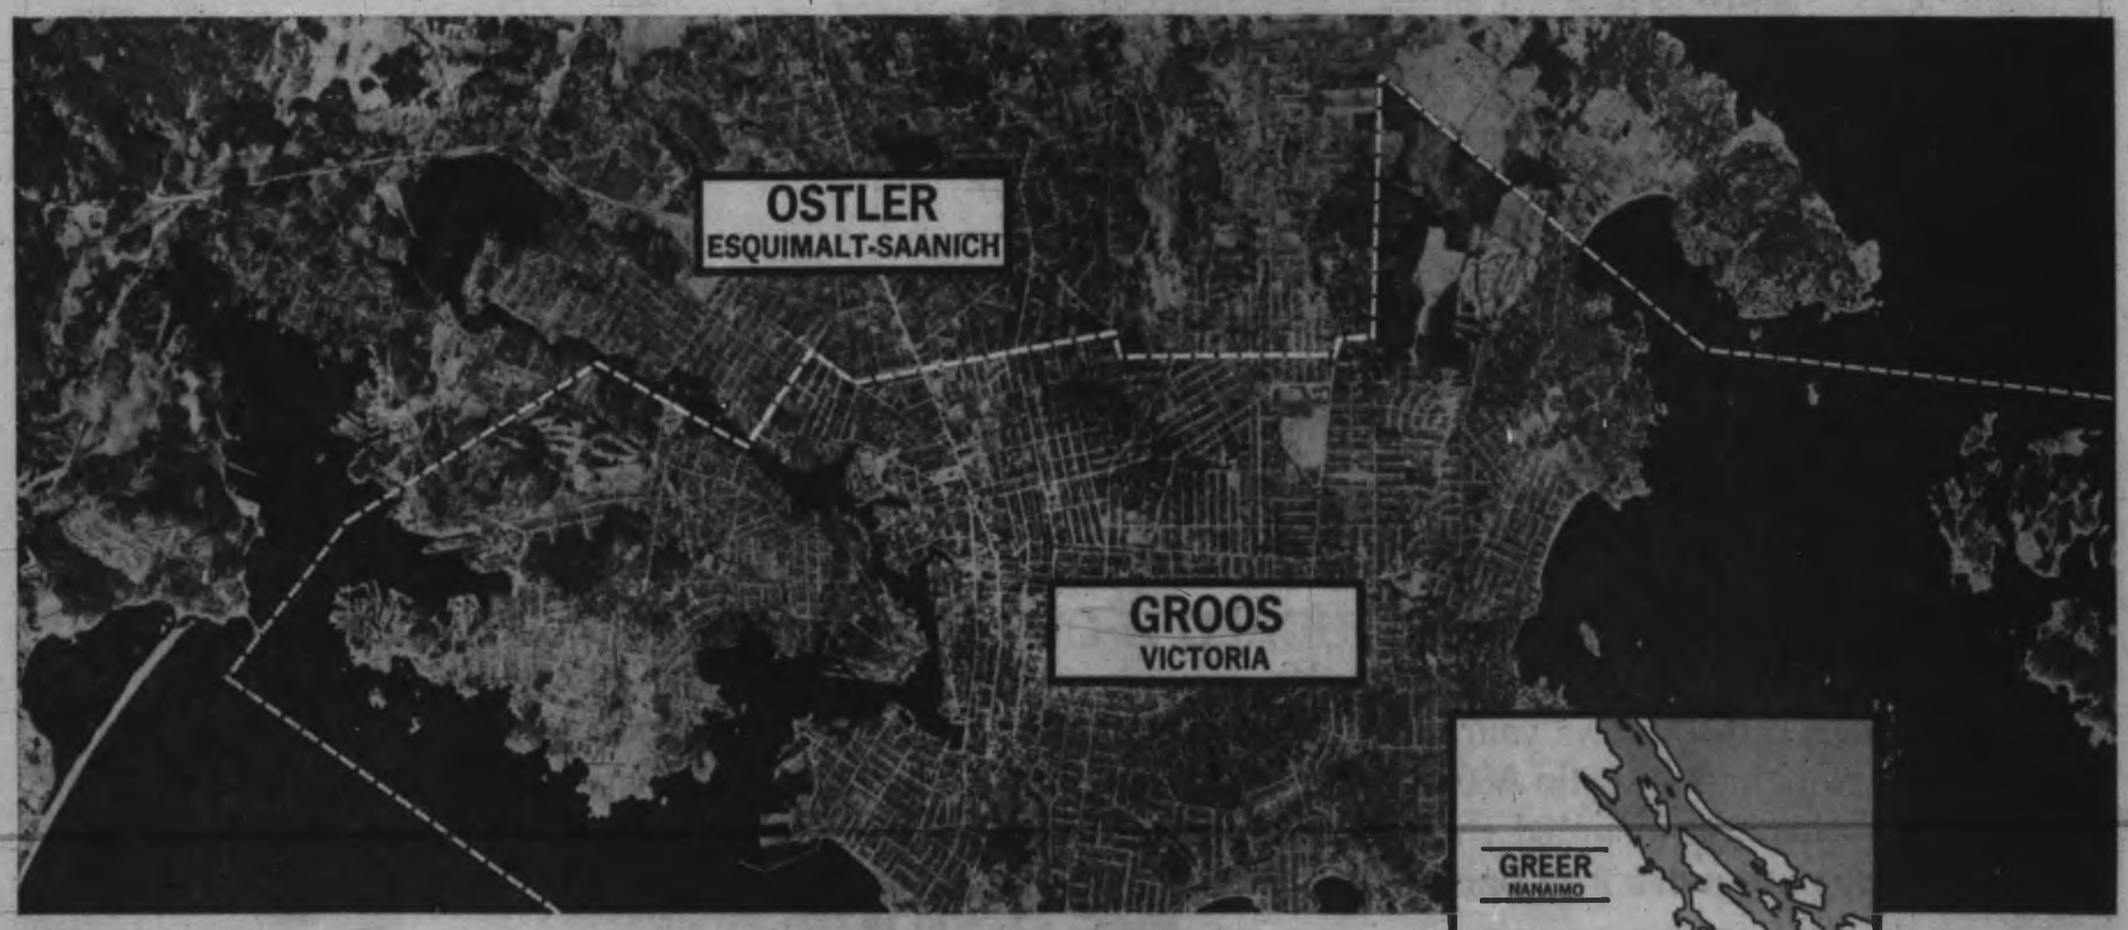

L. B. Pearson,

Leader of the Liberal Party.

Charman Pledges:

Harbor Facilities To Be Expanded

Victoria Conservative candidate Eric Charman last night pledged he would seek expansion of Turkey Head breakwater facilities and a Macaulay Point breakwater which would triple Victoria harbor facilities.

These are two of the main points in the 12-plank election platform Mr. Charman announced last night.

He qualified his promise about the Macaulay Point breakwater by insisting a survey would have to prove its desirability.

Other planks:

- Appointment of a director of Pacific Coast sport fishing.
- Complete bargaining rights for civil servants, which, he said, must be binding in principle.
- Immediate overhaul of the procedure and rules governing the House of Commons, to prevent obstruction through unnecessary procedural wrangling.
- Re-organization of the administration of our education system, especially its financing.
- Immediate establishment of a U.S.-Canadian legislative organization for greater understanding.
- An immediate intensive program of encouraging Canadians to travel in their own country.
- He will endeavor to get the federal government to embark on a new permanent policy of establishing new western departments of the civil service in Victoria.
- He will energetically assist in promoting the Victoria area as a residential retirement mecca of Canada.
- A contributary medicare scheme, so that no one will be denied care through inability to pay.
- A thorough examination and overhaul of all government pension policies and schemes, including those of the superannuated civil servants.

Liberal Declines Debate

Liberal candidate David Groos has refused a challenge to meet maverick Liberal Foster Isherwood to debate nuclear arms policy.

"Mr. Groos is prepared to debate only with the duly nominated candidate of a recognized political party—you possess neither qualification," lawyer David Gregory, business agent for Mr. Groos, replied to the challenge yesterday.

Big Problems Named

Tom Berger, former New Democratic Party MP for Vancouver-Burrard, told Victoria University students Monday "the two biggest problems facing Canada today are Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Liberal leader Pearson."

Mr. Berger spoke to a noon meeting of 75 students in the university auditorium on behalf of NDP candidates Harry Fanthorpe for Victoria and John Windsor for Esquimalt-Saanich.

NUCLEAR ARMS

Like other politicians who have spoken to the students in recent weeks, he was questioned closely on his party's stand on nuclear arms.

Mr. Berger said: "The defence theories which were accepted when we committed ourselves in 1959 went out with the end of the Eisenhower administration in the United States; therefore those commitments should be renegotiated.

ON BOTH SIDES

"Over the past year the Liberals have taken a firm stand on both sides of the fence," he said, "and the Conservatives are not making their decision until after the election."

Mr. Berger concluded, "Mr. Pearson says anyone who isn't in favor of the acquisition of nuclear arms is toeing the Kremlin line.

"This," he said, "is McCarthyism in a bow tie."

Thimbles are no longer big business. A West German works that once sent millions of thimbles all over the world now cannot keep busy.

Toe Whistles Bravely As Cemetery Beckons

Toe Blake still claims his Montreal Canadiens can beat Toronto Maple Leafs, but he is just about a minority of one.

To practically everyone else who saw Leafs win the first three games, the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final seems certain to end tonight when the teams meet in Montreal.

Blake, for publication at least, isn't conceding a thing.

"I think by the looks of the players, their actions and their attitude that they still think they can win one. We're not looking any further ahead than this game. We just plan to win that one."

Only one club—the Leafs—ever lost the first three games of any playoff series and came back to win. And Canadiens just aren't winning, no matter what set of figures you use. They have won only two of their last 11 games, and have lost seven straight Stanley Cup games.

COULDN'T HELP IT

"One thing, we're healthy," Blake said. Then, gloomily, "With the game they played Saturday, how could anyone get hurt?"

"I just wish somebody would tell me what's wrong. Their goalie hasn't been that good, and we led the league in scoring. I guess it's just been one of those years. We've been everything else but consistent. We tied 23 games in the season and never lost two in a row. Now we lose three straight."

Tonight's Montreal - Toronto game will be televised on Channels 2 and 6 starting at 6 p.m.

TO TRY ROOKIE

Canadiens have brought up forward Billy Sutherland from Quebec Aces, and he'll play tonight, but Blake hasn't decided whom he will replace. Leafs also made one change, bringing up defenceman Larry Hillman from Springfield to replace injured Johnny MacMillan.

While Blake cried the blues, Punch Imlach beamed over his Leafs. He took them home for the weekend "because three days in Montreal could be disastrous," and brought them back in top shape.

Neither Rudy Pilous of Chicago Black Hawks nor Sid Abel of Detroit Red Wings could make that statement. Both teams are hurting badly as they prepare for tonight's fourth game in Detroit.

LITTLE CHANGE

Bobby Hull's broken nose will keep him out of the Chicago lineup tonight and possibly Thursday. Defenceman Al MacNeil, who suffered two broken ribs in Thursday's game, may see limited action, but Ron Murphy's infected ankle will keep him out of action again tonight.

Red Wings must do without Vic Stasiuk, who has shoulder and jaw injuries and will be replaced by rookie Lowell MacDonald tonight.

Wings trail in the series, 2-1, but their performance in Sunday's 4-2 victory, plus the great play of Gordie Howe, has them convinced they'll tie things up tonight.

"We were a completely different team," Abel said. "We skated better than they did, and if it hadn't been for Glenn Hall, it would have been a rout. Now we know we can do it."

Pilous admitted that his club was simply outskated Sunday, but had a few words of warning for the Wings.

"This time we'll be skating all the way," he warned. "When we do, watch out."

Seals Lose To Blades

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Blades surprised San Francisco Seals Monday night in the opening games of their Western Hockey League quarter-final series by skating to an 8-2 win before 5,160 fans.

Rookie Harold White led the Blades with two goals and an assist while Willie O'Ree, Gordie Haworth, Stan Maxwell, Leo LaBine, Bob Solinger and Lloyd Haddon each scored once. Danny Belisle and Al Nicholson scored for Seals, runners-up in the Southern Division.

Second game of the best-of-three series is in San Francisco on Wednesday night.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

It took nearly 11 hours for 160 players to complete 18 holes over Victoria Golf Club Sunday, which must be some sort of record for slow play.

Event was the qualifying round of the Vancouver Island match play open championship, and it left most of the players tired, frustrated and annoyed.

Players in the late shifts were taking about five and one-half hours to complete the 5,980-yard circuit. Last lot out—which included two experienced professionals, Joe Pryke and Bill Court—started at 1:12 and finished at 6:30.

What went wrong? Certainly there should be some sort of inquest to see that it doesn't happen again.

Victoria, with its tight fairways and jungle rough, means a lot of time consumed looking for lost balls under the best of circumstances. Rules allow a five-minute search each time, but while this may be claimed, it is also the responsibility of those holding up play to wave the next group through. This does not always appear to be done.

Situation at the third and fourth holes also created a lot of delay. With those two fairways running more or less as one, there were many hold-ups as players hesitated to hit as long as other players were within range—although they were playing another hole.

At one time there was a delay of more than an hour on the third tee, and it seemed to remain constant all day. Perhaps the district committee should have a marshal at this point in future events.

The seventh—first in a series of par-three holes—was another point of delay, although not as serious as the one at the third.

Lastly, and perhaps more important, there was evidence of extremely slow play almost from the start of the competition. First group off the tee made the circuit in a normal three and one-half hours, but the second group took an hour longer despite a warning from the local professional on the 15th that they were holding up the course.

Low handicappers who were out in the middle of the draw had perhaps the best of the weather, but they were in the middle of the slow period, and this may have accounted in some measure for the indifferent scoring.

* * *

Norm Boden may have avoided the jinx which decrees that the medalist never wins the championship, by sharing it with Fred Painter.

Boden and Painter rate as strong contenders. Others I like are Bill Wakeham, who I think is entitled to the favorite's role; Ron MacLeod because of his consistency, and Dick Munn because of his tremendous power.

These look like the powerhouse five, but there are one or two old war horses around—notably Art Donaldson, Bill McColl and Frank Scroggs.

* * *

Three holes in one were scored on local courses on the weekend. Ed Varga aced the second at Victoria; Frank Donegani holed out on the eighth on the same course, and Ed Cuppage made his ace on the seventh at Royal Colwood.

* * *

Second annual Canadian senior championship will be held at Royal Quebec Golf Club, Boischatel, Que., July 22-27. George Hevenor of Ontario won last year in Winnipeg.

* * *

Monthly meeting of the B.C. Golf Association directors will be held April 19 at Victoria Golf Club at 7:30 p.m.

GUYLE FIELDER
. . . almost caught

* * *

Fielder Barely Makes It To Sixth Scoring Title

He slowed down a bit in the last week and was almost caught but Guyle Fielder is the Western Hockey League scoring champion for the sixth time in 11 seasons.

The 32-year-old Seattle centre didn't get 20 goals but his playmaking gave him a league-leading 80 assists for 97 points. It was just enough to beat out Nick Mickoski, 35-year-old San Francisco forward, who closed with a rush to finish with 95 points. Mickoski got nine points in the final week while Fielder missed his fourth 100-point season by getting only two points in the last two weeks.

Seattle's Bob Barlow, playing, of course, on Fielder's line, led goal-scorers with 47 scoring shots. Fielder's other wingman, Jim Powers, had 36 goals. It gave Seattle's top line an even 100 goals and 146 assists.

The WHL had prolific scorers by the dozen, no less than 14 players getting at least 30 goals and four going past 40.

Speaking Briefly

Bo in Trouble Again

Bo Belinsky, a lefthander with a wondering eye and, sometimes, a wandering fastball, is in trouble again.

The problem child of the Los Angeles Angels, who is being sued for $150,000 by a women who claims she was pushed out of his car last year, turned up late for a practice session over the weekend. Manager Bill Rigney immediately announced a fine, reported to be $500, was in the offing for Belinsky and his pal, Dean Chance, who was also late—because he was with Belinsky.

Watched by his current girl friend, actress Mamie Van Doren, Belinsky was tagged with the loss Sunday as the Angels took a 9-3 trimming from Houston Colts. But Belinsky was philosophical about it all.

"Let's face it," he said of himself and Chance, "we're just exciting news—like the atomic bomb."

Sunday scores: Spokane 3 at Portland 5; Vancouver 4 at Seattle 1.

Vancouver Canucks, the team most generally conceded to be the least likely to succeed before the season opened, Sunday won the Northern Division championship in the Western Hockey League by defeating Seattle Totems, 4-1, before a turnaway crowd of 7,713 Seattle fans.

Victory gave Canucks a bye in the playdowns and forced Totems to tackle Edmonton Flyers in a best-of-three quarter-final, starting Wednesday night in Seattle. Winners will meet Canucks in the semi-finals for the right to play in the league final against the Southern Division playoff survivors.

In the southern half of the league, Los Angeles Blades and San Francisco Seals meet in a best-of-three quarter-final with the winner taking on Portland Buckaroos in the other semi-final.

Port Alberni Quartet Wins Primary Event

PORT ALBERNI — Rinks from New Westminster, Campbell River and Vancouver all won events at the annual mixed bonspiel at the Alberni Valley Curling Club but top honors went to a Port Alberni quartet.

Edna Souther, supported by Wayne Reid, Helen Hickey and Chuck Turgeon, won five games in a row to take the "A" event. She defeated Verna Hartt's Port Alberni rink, 17-7, in the final.

Judy Morgan of New Westminster, who had Sybil Magnusson of Port Alberni doing the skipping, won the "B" event by beating Pearl Muir of Nanaimo in the final. L. Monteith of Campbell River outscored Margaret Olson of Port Alberni in the "C" final and Dorothy Fukuyama of Victoria skipped the Jefferson entry from Vancouver to a win over Polly Dorofoy of Port Alberni in the "D" final.

Howe Bests Hall In Brilliant Duel

Gordie Howe gave Detroit Red Wings a birthday present Sunday night in Detroit—a 4-2 victory over Chicago Black Hawks which put the Wings right back in their Stanley Cup final.

DIDN'T ACT AGE

Celebrating his 35th birthday with one of his greatest displays of hockey craft, Howe scored his third goal of the playdowns to tie the score at 1-1, started the play for the goal which made it 2-2 and made the shot which caused the rebound which Alex Faulkner flipped into the nets to provide the Wings with what was to be the winning goal.

Howe was the dominant figure on the ice as the Wings outplayed the Hawks but almost lost because goalkeeper Glenn Hall came up with a stupendous display of puck-blocking, backed up by some amazing luck on six occasions when shots which had him beaten hit one of the uprights.

Back on home ice after 5-4 and 5-2 setbacks in Chicago which had them facing virtual elimination, the Wings poured it on from the start.

They hit hard, carried the play—and got nowhere as Hall balked them at every turn. When the first period was over, the Hawks had managed six shots at Terry Sawchuk, the Wings had taken 17 at Hall and the score was 1-0 for Chicago.

The goal was scored by Stan Mikita, and it was the seventh goal out of the 11 the Hawks had at that time which was scored with the Wings playing shorthanded.

The pattern was the same for the first 10 minutes of the second period. Then Howe got a sudden break on the right side at the centre line and the big winger finished it off in his usual effortless style. He moved in to the centre fast enough to stay ahead of pursuers, picked his spot from about 15 feet and blasted the puck right through Hall's pads.

But even that wasn't to be the turning point. Seven minutes later, the Hawks broke away from a ganging attack and with the Detroit defence slipping on the play Mikita put Hawks ahead, 2-1.

Then Hawks' Ab McDonald got a penalty and the Wings started again. Howe got the puck back to Howie Young, who was used only on power plays, and Young drove a shot at Hall. Parker MacDonald was in the right spot to get the rebound and push it behind Hall in the last minute of the period.

MADE IT INEVITABLE

Howe led the Wings in the third-period attack which produced the winning and insurance goals. He made passes, was robbed three times in three seconds by Hall on point-blank shots, stickhandled through for a backhander that Hall blocked and, finally, got a shot away that Hall didn't smother or turn off into a corner. Faulkner nipped in quickly to get at the rebound and the Wings were ahead to stay.

Victoria West, needing a victory to make the top four, lost, 2-1, to first-place Gorge and finished fifth. Gorge, Kickers, Canadian Scottish and Brodies will begin playoffs next weekend.

HEANEYS LEAD

Heaneys, fighting to avoid relegation to the second division, beat Eddys, 3-1, Sunday in the opening game of their best-of-three series.

Kurt Lampert and Larry Johnston scored for Gorge and Leo Livingston got the goal for Wests, who lost their big chance when Whitey Wakelyn missed a penalty try with the score tied, 1-1.

Barry Cosier got two goals and Ron Pederson one for Heaneys. Eddys, beaten only twice this season, got their only goal from Chris Braun.

PPCLI beat HMCS Naden, 5-1, and Kings downed Victoria Press, 2-4, in Sunday's second division Commission Cup matches. PPCLI leads the round-robin event with a 3-0 record and Kings are 3-1.

Nick Nichol, with two goals, Bob McNab, Fred Gibb and Pat Walsh scored for PPCLI and Doug Baxter for Naden. Barry Bunyan got both goals for Kings and Pat McLoughlin replied for Vic Press, which played with 10 men.

Floor Irks Erland, But Fans Satisfied

By JIM TAYLOR

Erland Kops is the best badminton player in the world, and he's got the championships to prove it. But Kops was an angry young man last night, because he could not show Victoria fans his best.

"I'm disappointed, really annoyed," he told reporters as he paced tiger-fashion around his dressing room at Esquimalt Sports Centre. "What kind of a place is this to play badminton? What kind of a show can you give the people?"

Kops, Robert McCoig of Scotland and Chanarong and Sangob of Thailand, were here on one stop of a tour sponsored by the Canadian Badminton Association. Local officials, anticipating a crowd that never materialized (the matches drew 600) booked it at the Sports Centre because they felt Recquet Club facilities were inadequate.

It proved to be a mistake. The concrete floor was slippery, the ceiling too low. The lighting, excellent for hockey, was poor for badminton.

McCoig and the Thailanders were noncommittal. Kops was not, perhaps because he had just lost 15-12, 15-9 to Sangob, a player he beats with monotonous regularity.

"You see, I am expected to put on the best match," he explained when he had cooled down, "But I slip all over the floor and I cannot play my best because I cannot take a chance.

"I have a piece of cartilage floating in my right knee. I must be careful. If I slip and fall, I am through."

Kops has the pride of the champion. He obviously hates to lose. But even more obviously he hates to put on a mediocre show.

"It is all wrong," he said. "If I do not play my best tonight, then I send 500 or 600 people home unhappy. That is wrong. But if I take a chance and get hurt, what about the 2,000 or 3,000 people on the rest of the tour? So I can't take that chance.

"The best part of these tours is to come and play, then go away for a couple of years, come back, and see how much progress the game has made. What's the use of trying for a big crowd here to build up the game if those people are not satisfied with what they see? When we come back again, they will remember, won't they?"

Actually, Kops needn't have worried. Though the play might not have been up to what he considered tournament excellence, it appeared more than satisfying to the spectators.

They gave all four players rousing hands as Chanarong beat McCoig, 15-5, 5-15, 15-9; Sangob downed Kops, and McCoig and Kops took the Thailanders, 16-18, 15-10, 15-9 in doubles.

Kops and McCoig expressed delight at the rising interest in badminton they have noticed since they last toured Canada in 1960. They had special words of praise for Vancouver's Wayne Macdonnell, who rates "world class" in their book.

"Badminton is obviously growing more popular here," Kops said. "And I really felt like playing tonight. But I'm not going to break my leg on their floor. It's too bad. It's a shame."

WHITEY FORD
. . . gets company

ROGER MARIS
. . . tried too hard

Maris Latest Yankee Casualty

Injuries May Even Things Up

New York Yankees, who have been generally pleased with developments, particularly as regards their pitching, although having trouble winning their share of pre-season exhibition games, will start the major league baseball season next week missing two, perhaps three, of their stars.

Not long after manager Ralph Houk announced that southpaw Whitey Ford was not expected to be ready for the season's opening, the Yankees lost outfielder Roger Maris through injury resulting from a spectacular catch which he managed to convert into a double play.

ABOUT TWO WEEKS

Maris suffered a severely-pulled leg muscle yesterday while making a diving grab of a line drive in a 3-2 win over Detroit Tigers. It is extremely doubtful if Maris will be able to open the season.

Ford is suffering from recurring arm miseries and Houk said that "I don't expect him to be able to go nine innings even if he is able to start the opener." And Houk is also without shortstop Tony Kubek, who is nursing a bad arm.

However, there was some Yankee cheer in the showing of Joe Pepitone, the youngster who faces the stern task of replacing first-baseman Bill Skowron.

HE'S HOT

Pepitone hit his eighth home run of the spring yesterday to drive in his 15th run of the exhibition-game season. He hit two home runs Sunday in a 10-4 romp over Chicago White Sox and has generally looked as if he is ready for the major leagues.

Also making spring news was a veteran righthander who felt he wasn't given a fair chance last season by manager Birdie Tebbetts. Now getting every opportunity to prove his point under new manager Bob Bragan, Lew Burdette pitched nine innings Sunday as Milwaukee Braves blanked Baltimore Orioles, 2-0.

Jay Hook struck out nine in a seven-hit, 6-1 victory for New York Mets over Kansas City; Washington's Claude Osteen also went nine in a seven-hit, 4-2 win over St. Louis Cardinals; Bob Friend pitched a four-hit, 3-0 shutout for Pittsburg Pirates over Minnesota Twins and Robin Roberts went the route for Baltimore Orioles in a 6-1, four-hit win over Los Angeles Dodgers in other weekend action.

Boden Makes Certain Of Being in Select 32

Norm Boden, who missed qualifying last year after winning the event in 1961, made sure Sunday that he would be in the championship flight when match play starts for the Vancouver Island Open match-play golf championship.

SHARED MEDAL

The 25-year-old Victorian, professional at the Mount Brenton club near Chemainus, had to share medal honors with Fred Painter, a 44-year-old pro playing out of Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club, but his one-under-par 68 was the round of the day.

But for four holes, Boden would have been close to a course record at the Victoria Golf Club.

He was three-under par after four holes and completed the first nine holes in a three-under-par 30 despite one bogey. But he took double bogeys on the 11th and 14th holes and a bogey on the 15th to lose his chance at a spectacular round, and had to come up with an eagle three on the 17th to match Painter.

Two booming wood shots and a six-foot putt gave him his eagle, and when he finished, Boden's card showed the eagle, five birdies, two bogeys and two double bogeys.

Painter was more consistent in his 32-36, which showed 15 par holes, two birdies and a bogey.

Righ behind the top pair was Frank Scroggs, former city champion from Uplands, who matched par with a 69. Defending champion Ron MacLeod, former winner Bill McColl and Dave Fanthorpe were tied for fourth place with 70s but scores were disappointing the rest of the way with one 77 squeezing into the championship qualifying field of 32.

Six of the past seven champions entered qualified. In with Boden, MacLeod and McColl are Bill Wakeham, Art Donaldson and Bob Morrison. Missing out was Joe Briggs, the 1957 winner. Also on the outside were two pros, Bill Court of Colwood and Joe Pryke of Gorge Vale.

First round of match play will be at Colwood next Sunday. Boden has drawn Ricki Kent, young Colwood star, for his first opponent while Painter meets cousin Vic Painter.

'Plundering' of Jobless Fund Must Stop, Says Magistrate

Evelyn M. Grainger, 3075 Wascana, was fined $50 in city magistrate's court Monday for giving a false statement under the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Mrs. Grainger was charged with telling the commission she had been laid off due to lack of work where actually she had been granted a month's leave of absence. She did not draw unemployment benefits.

READY ADMISSION

Mrs. Grainger's lawyer told the court she had been under a misapprehension that she could obtain benefits because she was not being paid during her leave of absence. He also said his client had meant she was granted leave because of lack of work and had readily admitted what she had done when questioned by UIC officials.

"This is incredible," said Magistrate William Ostler. "Something must be done about the plundering of this unemployment fund."

Ronald Deyotte, 701 Connaught, pleaded guilty on three charges of "making misleading representations" to the commission.

He admitted saying he had no income for three weeks last November when he had earned a total of $148.

Canadian Club Will Disband

PORT ALBERNI—Lack of membership and low attendance at meetings have brought Alberni District Canadian Club to the end of its days.

A spokesman for the club, formed here 30 years ago, announced that meetings will not resume in the fall.

FREEZES DEEP

Fish frozen about 1,100 years ago in Antarctica's Ross Ice Shelf have been found in a remarkable state of preservation.

Harry Haigh pleaded guilty to operating a junk yard without a permit at 1586 Rockland. A city inspector told the court he had made a list of items found on the property.

The list included metal pipe, car jacks, used telephone pole hardware, angle iron, broken clay tile, a rusty winch, floor lamps, bed frames, old grinding wheels, second hand plumbing fixtures, five-gallon cans, used boilers, sinks, concrete blocks, building paper, roofing, sheeting, broken lampshades, old window sashes and frames, wood spools, joints, studs, siding and flooring.

HAD NO IDEA

Mr. Haigh said when he bought the items he "had no idea they were going to deliver the whole building."

"They delivered them when I wasn't there," he added.

"You are a most plausible man," Magistrate William Ostler said, remanding the case for a week.

Mr. Haigh said he would do everything he could to clean up the mess.

"And so will I," added the magistrate.

Fascist Attacks Fanfani

NOVARA, Italy (AP) — A Fascist candidate for Parliament was held Monday on charges of disturbing a rival election rally by throwing tax forms in Premier Fanfani's face.

U.S. Motelmen Feted Here

About 100 Washington State motel operators are visiting Victoria and being wined, dined and shown around by their Victoria counterparts.

The visit is being handled by the Victoria and Southern Vancouver Island local of the B.C. Auto Courts and Resorts Association for an exchange of ideas and goodwill—and in the hope the Washington motel operators will tell their customers about the attractions of Victoria.

It is a repeat of a similar visit organized several years ago.

On the agenda for today were breakfast at the Hudson's Bay Company followed by a London Bus tour, with other buses also likely to be used.

New Government In Guatemala Threatens Reds

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — Col. Enrique Peralta Azurdia's new revolutionary government, acclaimed by most political parties in Guatemala, threatened Monday to crack down hard on any Communist demonstrations against it.

The army was placed on the alert to crush disorders, which the defence ministry said were planned by Red groups.

DRASTIC STEPS

"The most drastic steps will be taken against agitators," the ministry warned in a broadcast statement.

The whereabouts of ex-president Juan Jose Arevalo remained a mystery. He is the leftist exile whose secret return to Guatemala Friday apparently prompted the military coup that overthrew President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes.

Arevalo vanished after telling reporters here he was going to live with peasants on the Pacific coast. Though four Red parties backed him to run in a November presidential election, Arevalo denied he is a Communist. He said he is a spiritual Socialist.

ACTIVITY TOLERATED

Communist political activity had been tolerated under Ydigoras, even while he fought foreign communism.

EXILED BY MILITARY

The armed forces ousted Ydigoras Sunday and exiled him to Nicaragua in a coup that installed Peralta, his defence minister for more than two years, as chief of state.

DO BETTER JOB

Ydigoras seemed to agree with their contention that, with Peralta at the helm, they could do a better job in combatting Communist infiltration and subversion.

The 67-year-old former general told reporters in Managua, Nicaragua's capital, the developments were for the good of both Guatemala and the rest of Central America.

March Turns

March, the month that often goes out like a lion, mended its ways this year with above-average sunshine and below-normal winds.

Recorded sunshine in March was, 164.1 hours, 17.8 hours above normal. Precipitation was .77 inch, lowest amount measured in March in 76 years.

Island Tug Pioneers Salt Tow

VANCOUVER (CP)—Island Tug and Barge officials expressed hope Monday a steady tugboat-barge tow route may be opened between B.C. and U.S. West Coast ports—thanks to Capt. Harley Blagbourne and his delivery of a 10,000-ton salt cargo through a freak typhoon from California to Vancouver in just four days.

Capt. Blagbourne, a skipper who knows a gale of wind when he feels it — it was he who towed the crippled freighter Makedonia across the Pacific in a record maritime feat a few years ago — said he hit the worst winds of his career on the trip.

But his tug, the powerful Sudbury II, came through the blow which gusted to better than 100 miles an hour, and made the trip from San Francisco to Vancouver without damage to tug or tow.

It was the first time a bulk salt cargo had been carried in an open barge and observers of salt companies from New York and San Francisco came to Vancouver to witness the arrival and unloading of the cargo late last week.

Nanaimo Boy Drowns In Swamp Near Home

NANAIMO—A small boy's dog came home dripping wet in Wellington Monday, shortly after police had been notified the boy was missing. Following an intensive search Gregory Arthur Sheepwash, age 3½, was found drowned.

The boy's body was found lying face down in a swamp just behind the Sheepwash home.

His six-year-old cousin, Alan Earl Sheepwash, was killed when struck by a truck while riding his new Christmas bicycle early in January at the Trans-Canada-Jingle Pot intersection.

Council also voted to buy a new pumper for the fire department from the Silver Line company for $23,835.

Election Roundup

New Treaty Urged

Speaking in Douglas Hall last night, Harry Fanthorpe, New Democratic Party candidate for Victoria, said "the time has come for an entirely new look at the whole problem of international fisheries in the north Pacific Ocean."

He would press for negotiation of a new treaty with provision for inclusion of all north Pacific nations to replace the present treaty, he said.

The new treaty would embody these basic principles:

● Recognition of the right, under international law, of any country to insist on full protection of any fishing in which conservation methods are or can be instituted.

● Recognition of a country's right to establish a headland-to-headland baseline, inside of which would be territorial waters, and also the right of any country unilaterally to declare up to a 12-mile limit from that baseline as a territorial fishing limit.

The Liberals were charged with duplicating the Conservative policies at a two-candidate meeting in View Royal Community Hall last night.

An orderly crowd of more than 50 people attended.

Reading from a Liberal policy list Esquimalt-Saanich Conservative candidate George Chatterton charged 80 per cent of the Liberal program had been stolen from the Conservatives.

Speaking in opposition to Mr. Chatterton was the riding's Liberal candidate Robert Ostler.

In his charge of duplication Mr. Chatterton pointed out most items on the Liberal policy list had already appeared either in the speech from the throne at the last sitting or on Parliament's orders of the day.

Candidate Ostler questioned the motives of the Conservatives in not calling the session until three months after the last election.

He charged much vital legislature never got as far as the house.

"Mr. Pearson volunteered to reduce the question period to 30 minutes, to sit longer and get on with vital legislation," he said. He could not see this action as obstruction.

The New Democratic candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich says he wonders who is really paying for Communist Party advertisements and literature urging support of the NDP.

"I doubt that it is anyone who really wishes our party well, as the public may look upon such support as the kiss of death, and local Communist support is infinitesimal," John Windsor said at a rally attended by 92 persons last night.

Tom Berger, NDP candidate for Vancouver-Burrard, said the uppermost need in Parliament is for men of purpose and integrity. "I know because I have been there."

Mr. Berger said there is a swing in Quebec toward the New Democrtic Party, which has received the support of the Montreal newspaper Le Devoir.

Artists Excel in Mozart Life

By BERT BINNY

Some outstanding musical and dramatic artistry was displayed during the presentation last night of Four Scenes from the Life of Mozart by the intermediate group of the Musical Art Society.

Musically excellent performances came from Rino Elverhoy, flautist Anne Metrakos, clarinettist Diana Brown, violinist Barbara Ann Court and from an untiring accompanist in Miss Gail Wall.

The ensembles responsible for the various overtures also did well and the assisting Gayfer singers provided fine choral performances.

Dramatically the laurels go to Jennifer Self as Caterina and to Tami-Jean Burton as Teresina. They created and retained definite, recognizable characters and resisted the obvious temptation to upstage others when the opportunity was present.

★ ★ ★

Mozart seemed to be somewhat underplayed by Timothy Vernon and the characterization of Constanze von Weber by Suzanne Derricks seemed to be at variance with what history says about her.

This in no way detracts from the capabilities of both these performers.

★ ★ ★

The show was long; perhaps some of the repeats could have been eliminated without reducing the success of the artists.

The vocal duet by Joan Stallybrass and Rosetta Boyle as well as the solo by Jill Paver improved as they progressed.

★ ★ ★

The audience was requested by director Audrey Johnson not to applaud at certain points and there was another similar request on the program; to preserve the mood and continuity of the show.

Unfortunately, the continuity was partially destroyed by extended pauses between scenes.

Heavy Industry

German Firms Merge

By TERRENCE PRITTIE

BONN—Forthcoming merger of two of the biggest steel firms in West Germany and Europe, August Thyssen of Duisburg-Hamborn and Phoenix Rheinruhr of Dusseldorf, is the biggest industrial news of the year in the Ruhr.

The merger, announced by the Coal and Steel Community, is expected to become effective this month or early in May. It creates Europe's biggest single concentration of economic power in the field of heavy industry. It was held up four years by the Community.

THREE ACTIONS

Phoenix recently was criticized for three actions—granting of rebates on steel sold to customers, the "steel tube" deal with Russia and the takeover of the bankrupt Schleicker combine for next to nothing.

The merger also is a final epitaph to the allied postwar policy of breaking up the big German trusts.

Limited Facilities For Conventions Slated

By IAN STREET

Limited convention facilities will be included in the civic playhouse as part of Centennial Square, it was decided yesterday.

The move was endorsed a few days ago by representatives of downtown merchants, real estate interests and hotelmen.

FOR DISPLAYS

It will mean adding of another 4,000 square feet of public space, bringing the total to 6,000 feet, which would be used for displays and when the occasion arises for seating some 350 persons for a meal.

Only small kitchen facilities suitable for a snack and refreshment bar will be included in plans. Large functions would be catered from outside.

Additional cost of the expansion is estimated at $100,000, bringing the total for the civic playhouse to $370,000.

EARLY DECISION

Mayor R. B. Wilson yesterday warned the committee that a decision must be made soon on whether to borrow against the T. S. MacPherson bequest to carry out the theatre project without lengthy delays.

The committee charged with over-all planning of the project approved a budget totalling $1,876,450 — a figure that includes public subscriptions and provincial grants towards the senior citizens centre, grants from surrounding municipalities and Capital Improvement District Commission.

AT NEXT MEETING

But it delayed until its next meeting the final decision on what form of financing should be used in construction of the civic theatre.

Ratepayers last December endorsed by a 4-to-1 vote the borrowing of up to $850,000 which will meet the city's share of costs in the initial stage of the project.

LIST OF FACILITIES

The budget received by the committee yesterday lists the theatre and convention facilities, totalling $370,500, and the shopping arcade, $73,000, for which money must still be found.

If, instead of borrowing against the MacPherson bequest, the committee decides to follow the original course of financing from the sale of city-owned properties, the theatre could be delayed three or four years.

TO REMAIN 'ALIVE'

Alan Hodgson, architect consultant on the theatre, told the committee yesterday provision of large public spaces is vital if it is not to remain "dead" at times when there is no performance.

Not Many Vote Early

Advance polls in the Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich ridings closed at 8 p.m. Monday with a light vote recorded.

Victoria returning officer Edmond St. Jorre reported about 500 voted in his riding and Esquimalt-Saanich returning officer John Davies said voting in his riding was light.

Voting has begun in military installations across Canada and around the world and will continue for the rest of this week.

Graf Spee, Hipper Visiting Victoria

Two German frigates, the Graf Spee and the Hipper, arrived in Esquimalt harbor Monday, docking at the government jetty.

The frigates are on a cadet training cruise which started in Kiel, Germany, January 22, and will end at that port June 22.

The ships are former Royal Navy frigates of the Black Swan class. The Graf Spee was launched in 1938 as HMS Flamingo and the Hipper in 1946 as HMS Actaeon.

Each ship is carrying 80 cadets and at the end of the cruise will have travelled 22,000 miles.

The ships leave Esquimalt Wednesday for Vancouver, then start their return journey to Germany.

Police Name Crash Victims

The two victims of an Interurban Road car crash Saturday were identified by police Monday as Lloyd Billy, 34, of Nooksack, Wash., and Mrs. Joan Patricia Sylvester, 19, of Brentwood.

GLEN HARRIGAN

Seen In Passing

Police said Mr. Billy drove the car which left the road at high speed and somersaulted into a ditch. He was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital. Mrs. Sylvester died shortly after being admitted to hospital.

The deaths boosted Greater Victoria's 1963 traffic death toll to nine.

FAIRLY GOOD

Mrs. Sylvester's husband, Vincent, 23, is still in Royal Jubilee Hospital where he is reported to be in "fairly good" condition with multiple injuries.

Isadore Tom, 21, of Bellingham, only other person in the car, was released from hospital Sunday following treatment for multiple lacerations.

HIT ROCK BANK

Mr. Billy and Mr. Tom were visiting the Sylvesters at the time.

Their car was travelling south on Interurban about one-half mile south of West Saanich Road when it hit a rock bank and went out of control.

The car careened along the road for 100 feet and hit a guard rail above the deep ditch. It lurched along the brink of the ditch, knocking out 50 feet of wooden railing, and plunged in.

FLIPPED OVER

The car continued 70 feet through the ditch before it hit a rock bank over a culvert and flipped over on its back.

Mr. Billy was pinned beneath the car. The other three occupants were thrown from the vehicle.

The death car was so badly battered that wreckers had to use dollies under the rear wheels to remove it. The front end was smashed and the whole vehicle flattened.

SURVIVORS

Mrs. Sylvester is survived by her husband and three children, Cecelia, Alice and Ronald, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Smith, all of Brentwood.

Prayers will be offered in Sands Memorial Chapel of Chimes, 1803, Quadra, at 7:30 p.m. today. Mass will be celebrated in Our Lady of the Assumption Church, West Saanich, at 10 a.m. Wednesday. Interment will take place in West Saanich Cemetery.

There will be no inquest.

Winner's Way to Stay Fit

Walk the Year Round

* * *

Tramp, tramp, tramp along the highways and byways all year round if you want to get fit and stay fit., Colonist Walkathon winner Alan Valiant advised last night.

"Walking frequently is about the cheapest and easiest way to keep fit," he said, "rather than make one major walk and then rest your aching muscles."

* * *

Alan is feeling fine after his gruelling 50-mile walk in less than 10 hours, but he stressed it was because he was fit and trained to begin with.

"Gordon Hartley was my coach—he coached three out of the first four walkers home—and he warned me not to go out training day after day, eight miles one day and nine miles the next.

* * *

"He told me to do nine miles one day and rest the next.

"And another thing, he told me to soak my feet in salt water to harden them. That's why I didn't get any blisters.

"Day and night, for 10 days before the Walkathon, I went down to the Dallas Road waterfront and soaked my feet in the water."

* * *

Alan's training paid off in more ways than one. Now his muscles are loose, with no aches.

He also added his voice to a suggestion that has been made by many of the contestants—aching muscles, blisters and all:

They want the Walkathon made an annual event.

How do they feel two days after walking farther than they have ever walked before? Here are some comments:

* * *

Joachim Kaldenberg: "My feet are getting over it and my muscles are a little sore. I was thinking I wouldn't be surprised if you had one every year, but I think there should be two divisions to separate the trained athletes from the untrained walkers."

* * *

Cresswell Chernskey: "I'm not too bad, actually. My legs are just a little stiff and my feet are a little sore—still. I think it would be a good idea to have one next year. It would get everyone interested in keeping fit and sports activities."

* * *

Greg Hellyer: "I took a hot bath when I got home, right away. Just my feet are a bit sore. Are you going to have another one next year?"

* * *

Jonathan Churchill: "Well I've tired feet. It would be wonderful if it was an annual event."

* * *

Michael Sampson: "It was a very good effort on the Colonist's part. I would certainly take part in anything you have to offer at any other time. I'm feeling a little 'leggy' today. I went right after the walkathon for a rubdown."

* * *

Mrs. E. Fern Irvine: "I'm not even stiff today. I got up early yesterday—at 5 a.m.—and walked about seven miles around Brentwood in five hours so I wouldn't be stiff. I got lost behind the air port Saturday but I guess I walked about 25 miles in all. This time of year is so pretty I'd like to see it made an annual event."

The contestants also had one thing more in common—they all said they'd do it again if they got the chance.

'Army' Aided

To preserve his amateur standing, Alan Valiant will receive a trophy and a memento and has asked The Daily Colonist to donate the rest of the $100 first prize to the Salvation Army.

An amended list of winners will be published in The Daily Colonist this week.

'Husky Jump' Ahead In Saanich Taxes?

Saanich taxpayers face "a pretty husky jump" in the mill rate if council goes ahead with everything planned for 1963, veteran Coun. Joseph Casey warned last night.

He made the comment during council's consideration of its parks committee's report, objecting to inclusion of $5,000 in the 1963 estimates for boulevard maintenance.

SEEMS TOO STEEP

The city's $1,600 asking price for part-time use of its jail and courtroom facilities seems too steep for Saanich, Reeve Stanley Murphy said.

In the past Saanich has paid the city police commission $2,000 a year for its use of the jail and courtroom.

This rent was paid for 1962.

With completion of Saanich's own facilities at Swan Lake, Saanich use of the city's facilities has dropped considerably, a Saanich spokesman explained. Saanich police commission will debate the matter next week.

Council is keeping a close watch on the Wilkinson Road Mental Home to see what the B.C. government plans to do with the property.

Coun. Gregory Cook strongly opposed any possibility the building might be used for a jail.

"I don't think a person could complain too bitterly if it was turned into something to do with retarded children."

Saanich planner Antony Parr said the government had been told any change in use would have to be approved by council.

* * *

One Objection Voiced To Liquor Store Bid

Saanich council's bid for a liquor store has drawn one objection.

Council received and filed without comment last night a letter from Mrs. Catherine Dayfoot, 2540 Shelbourne Street:

"You are apparently overlooking a few facts which every citizen, whether in Saanich or elsewhere, should consider before making any endeavor to make liquor readily available to any citizen.

"Ethyl alcohol is a habit-forming drug, not a stimulant . . .

"There are thousands of alcoholics in Canada, many of them women . . .

"Many of the world's outstanding economists have said that the financial cost to the community due to human and material damage caused by the use of alcoholic beverages cancels any income from revenue obtained by the tax on liquor."

Pay Goes Up For Firemen

Saanich firemen won an undetermined pay increase last night.

It will be 98 per cent of Victoria firemen's wages. They haven't reached agreement with the city and want parity with Vancouver, where there also has been no agreement.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I simply can't bring myself to discuss this with anyone else. Please tell me if you think I need professional help.

Yesterday I attended the meeting of an organization of which I am a board member. The women at the head table were given lovely corsages. Mine was especially beautiful.

When I arrived home I removed my corsage and carefully placed it on the shelf in the hall closet: Then I put my hat in the refrigerator. In a few seconds I realized what I had done and I was horrified.

What does this mean? Is it serious? Please tell me.

—STRICTLY PERSONAL.

Dear Personal: All of us do such things once in a while. It means absolutely nothing except that for the moment we were absent-minded.

If you had LEFT the hat in the refrigerator and tried to serve it with coffee—then you'd have something to worry about.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I married a divorced man two years ago. I went with him almost four years before we were married so I was well aware of his rotten family situation—his greedy, grasping wife, and his ill-mannered children.

He paid through the nose for his divorce but it was the only way he could get it. His monthly alimony and support payments leave him with cigarette and gasoline money. We live on my salary.

Now he tells me his oldest daughter is having trouble with her mother. The girl has asked if she can come and live with us. I don't want her. She's sloppy, bad-tempered, sullen and lazy. Her presence in our home would create a problem.

When I tried to make this clear to my husband he cut me short with: "She's MY daughter and I don't want any criticism of her." Is this fair? What shall I do?—HIGH HURDLE.

Dear Hurdle: When you marry a divorced man you marry the total guy — his children, his splintered paycheck, his built-in memories, the nagging guilt and the roots elsewhere.

If you value your marriage you'd better agree to take his daughter in — then do your darnedest to make a friend of her. Build bridges, Toots, not fences. If you don't, you may be the one who lands on the outside.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: Please help me—and fast. Adelle, who is my fiancee, is going to be guest of honor at a bridal shower next month. The party will take place at her maid-of-honor's house. There will be about 35 girls present.

Adelle wants me to drop in for a few minutes—just long enough to meet everybody and have a cup of coffee and a piece of cake. I'd rather jump into Lake Michigan and I can't swim.

Please tell me, Ann, is it proper for a man to attend a party of this kind? I've asked around the shop and not a single guy here has ever done it. I've promised to do as you say, so please think it over and have mercy.

—LAMB TO SLAUGHTER.

Dear Lamb: If it means so much to Adelle—I say go. It's her way of showing you off to her girl friends.

This will probably be one of a long list of things you'll be doing to please her, even though it doesn't make any sense to you. If Adelle is a good wife she'll return the favor, time and time again. Welcome to the Club.

Confidential to WORRIED PARENTS: Make a pedestrian out of this boy at once. He has demonstrated that he can't be trusted behind the wheel of a car. Tell him privileges entail responsibilities and he hasn't proved he can handle them.

* * *

Confidential to YES OR NO: No. There are worse things in life than loneliness and if you marry this liar you'll find out what they are.

April 8

Work for Victory

There are many women, mainly behind the spotlight of publicity, working hard to promote their own candidates to victory in the forthcoming election on April 8. To give the public a personal glimpse of these women the Colonist presents a little sketch of wives and volunteers.

Phyllis Groos, wife of the Liberal candidate for the Victoria riding, is as she says, "interested in the usual things, gardening and music." She has become fond of music through her children, all four of whom are musically minded.

MRS. GROOS

Capt. David Groos RCN (Rtd.), and his family have lived in Victoria for the past seven years and at present reside on Newport Avenue.

Laura, the Grooses' eldest daughter, who is almost 14, last year won top marks in the province from the Toronto Conservatory of Music for her singing. This won her the Silver Medal. Laura also takes ballet dancing.

Recently, Laura won first prize in a group of 20 folksingers under 16, taking part in the Vancouver Music Festival. In addition, she was awarded a junior vocal scholarship for the singer between 12 and 18 who displayed the most talent.

There are also 12-year-old Madelaine, 10-year-old Brian, and Hilary who is seven.

Although Phyllis Groos finds life a little hectic right now, she adds, "We're used to it, having been in the navy."

The Grooses have lived in Ottawa and Washington, the latter when Capt. Groos was assistant naval attache.

"We're certainly used to travelling around," she says.

She says she is naturally interested in politics, "as we wives all are." But she finds little time for clubs or other activities outside of those connected with her family.

Lorraine Ostler, wife of Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate Robert V. Ostler, met her husband just after the war when they were both working for the B.C. Telephone Company.

MRS. R. OSTLER
—(Kent Sproule)

"Bob," a DFC with seven years in the RAF and RCAF, had joined up in England, just before the outbreak of hostilities.

"We met through our work," said Mrs. Ostler, "and at that time we were both active bowlers, too. I don't have much time for bowling any more, but sometimes we go with the whole family."

Dark-haired Mrs. Ostler has six lovely children. They are Karen, 14; David, 11; Steven, 7; Jeffrey, 5; Murray, 4, and Kathleen, 1.

"As you can imagine," laughs Lorraine Ostler, "I do not have a lot of time for outside activities, but I make the time for three special groups."

Mrs. Ostler always makes the time for collecting for the Community Chest and for the polio drive. Her most special activity is the Cerebral Palsy Auxiliary.

She is a charter member of this auxiliary, and has worked for it for more than six years.

The Ostlers belong to St. Luke's Anglican Church.

As for family hobbies, they're mostly bowling, and fishing at Brentwood. And the whole family is helping Mr. Ostler to build a boat.

"Right now," said Mrs. Ostler, "work on the boat is a bit slow. Bob is so busy campaigning."

She attends all his meetings and accompanies him on his trips.

"I don't sit on the platform with him, but I give him my support from the audience. I've always been interested in municipal affairs, and I love the campaign."

Mr. Ostler, a brother of Magistrate William Ostler, is a Saanich councillor.

SIDING

Nature has endowed the giant red cedar of British Columbia with every quality a homeowner could ask for in a versatile construction material with its "built-in" weather resistance, insulation value, working ease and, above all, inherent beauty.

Western Red Cedar is the traditional choice of architects everywhere, for every application. The attractive grain and warm colors of this fine wood blend beautifully with any home style, modern or traditional—in any setting, urban or rural.

TV TALK

BATTLE of champions shapes up next fall, when ABC throws Ben Casey directly opposite CBS-TV's Beverly Hillbillies. Certain disreputable but optimistic critics are in ecstasy at the thought of a double suicide . . . two more hour-long shows definitely set for the new season: Greatest Show on Earth, circus drama with Jack Palance, and Amos Burke, in which Gene Barry plays a millionaire policeman . . . test film for Kincaid, the proposed series in which Dick Clark runs a police youth centre, will be shown April 15 on Stoney Burke . . . NBC will run a four-part series on the Catholic church May 5, 12, 19 and 26 on Catholic Hour . . . ABC has signed a contract for world-wide television of the winter Olympic Games from Innsbruck, Austria, Jan. 29 to Feb. 9, 1964 . . . Chet Huntley narrates Encyclopedia on Communism April 10 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. on NBC . . . tomorrow's CBS Reports probes the perils and promise of widespread use of pesticides.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	1 ♡	2 N.T.	Pass
3 N.T.	All Pass

Opening lead: Heart deuce

Some bridge hands, especially the ones which appear in newspaper columns, present declarer with one specific problem. Once this is solved, he is in calm waters. But on today's deal, South steered clear of one submerged rock only to run aground on a second.

North chose to open the bidding because he had a five-car suit and an easy rebid. East also was in two minds about whether to take action, and was influenced by his useful intermediate cards. Once he had decided to bid, his actual choice of one heart was slightly inferior to a takeout double, which would have left open the possibility of playing in any one of three suits. South's jump to two no trump was accurate and descriptive, and North had to continue to game.

As East would not make a vulnerable overcall with a four-card suit, West's lead of the heart deuce was clearly from a three-card holding and was sure to include an honor. South knew that West did not belong to the minority of experts who lead low from three small cards. So when East won the first trick with the heart ace and returned the ten, South placed West with the queen and put up his king. This was good play because it blocked the heart suit effectively.

Declarer's later play was not so good. He led a low club to the queen and lost to the singleton ace. Even after this he could have made nine tricks, but he did not. He should have realized that East was sure to have the club ace for his vulnerable overcall, and that he could guard against a singleton ace by leading the first round of clubs from dummy. If he had led to dummy's diamond king at the third trick and then led the club deuce, his problems would have been over.

Garden Notes

Poppy Easy to Grow

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

In Sunday's Colonist I announced the second of our free seed offers for 1963—seeds of a new California poppy called Mission Bells, making double and semi-double flowers in a whole range of new and very lovely colors. In all the 11 years I have been distributing new and unique seeds to Colonist readers, I don't think I have ever run across any quite so easy to grow.

I offered to send a packet containing 150 to 200 seeds of this charming flower to any of my gardening friends who would like to try them out—enough to make a grand splash of color in any garden.

* * *

To get your free seeds, simply drop me a line and ask for them, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope. Or if you are the type that detests writing letters, you can snip out and use the little order form at the foot of this column.

So far, in describing this flower, I have been using its common nickname, California poppy. It's true name is Eschscholzia, pronounced Esh-sholt-see-a, with the accent on the second syllable, and I must confess this is one flower name I have never been able to spell without referring to the dictionary.

* * *

The plant was named in honor of Dr. Johann Eschscholz, a physician and naturalist attached to a Russian exploring expedition to North America about 150 years ago. David Douglas, the intrepid young Scottish plant explorer who gave us the Douglas fir, was captivated by the great masses of these lovely poppies blooming in around Monterey and sent back seeds to his sponsors in London.

Technically, the California poppy is a perennial but the roots are not reliably hardy in our wet winters—sometimes they come through and sometimes they don't. However, it blooms so quickly and easily from a scattering of seeds it is customarily treated as an annual, as it seeds itself freely, you can usually find plenty of self-sown volunteers coming up the following spring even though the roots may perish.

Whenever I give away free seeds, one question I always get thrown at me is—what color are the flowers, and here I have no simple answer for you. Mission Bells is a dwarf form of Eschscholzia bearing fully double and semi-double flowers in a very wide range of colors and shades.

* * *

My seeds are a mixture of named varieties—you might call it a surprise-package, for there will probably be color combinations never before seen turn up in your garden. Included in the mixture are such varieties as Mandarin, orange with flame-tipped petals; Geisha, gold with red reverse; Flambeau, semi-double scarlet; Dazzler, crimson-scarlet; Rajah, deep purple; Mauve Beauty, mauve; Eastern Queen, a salmon and cream bicolor and Queen of Spring, fully double yellow flecked with scarlet. In addition, there will be natural hybrids between these varieties, so each plant, as it blooms, will provide a brand-new surprise.

CHARLES McDOWELL Finds Relief from Political Verbiage

A Child Clears the Air

A colleague came across an old newspaper clipping the other day on the subject of clarity and simplicity of language. He brought it to us to read, thereby rescuing us from the swamps and thickets of language as used by politicians.

We were reading the Congressional Record at the time, and our head was reeling as we stumbled through the verbiage.

Here was Senator Dirksen of Illinois referring to the moon as "that great stellar orb in the firmament."

Here was Senator McGee of Wyoming reading a speech about the United Nations: "It behooves us to avoid the pitfalls of fixed percentage ceilings . . . On the anvil of experience there have been hammered out new concepts . . ."

* * *

Here was Representative Hosmer of California writing something about a nuclear-test ban: "The equivalents also may be produced in harder formation by firing a shot of larger kiloton yield in a cavity which decouples the explosive force from the surrounding earth thereby reducing the seismic shock signal to that created by a smaller kiloton yield device which is not decoupled by a cavity."

* * *

Turning desperately to the clipping we found that it concerned a book, Plain Words, written by Sir Ernest Gowers to help British officialdom in the use of the language.

Sir Ernest said the jargon, circumlocution and other cumbersome habits of expression do not develop in writers until they reach young adulthood. Children write simply and directly, he said. They set a good example for us all.

To illustrate his point, Sir Ernest passed along an exercise written by a 10-year-old child who was asked to write an essay on a bird and a beast.

* * *

It is a pleasure to quote in its entirety this splendid example of clear and simple English:

"The bird I am going to write about is the Owl. The Owl cannot see at all by day and at night is as blind as a bat.

"I do not know much about the Owl, so I will go on to the beast which I am going to choose. It is the Cow. The Cow is a mammal. It has six sides—right, left, an upper and below. At the back it has a tail on which hangs a brush. With this it sends the flies away so that they do not fall into the milk.

"The head is for the purpose of growing horns and so that the mouth can be somewhere. The horns are to butt with, and the mouth is to moo with.

"Under the cow hangs the milk. It is arranged for milking. When people milk, the milk comes and there is never an end to the supply. How the cow does it I have not yet realized, but it makes more and more. The cow has a fine sense of smell; one can smell it far away. This is the reason for the fresh air in the country.

"The man cow is called an ox. It is not a mammal. The cow does not eat much, but what it eats it eats twice, so that it gets enough. When it is hungry it moos, and when it says nothing it is because its inside is all full up with grass."

Anthology of Partly-Baked Ideas

By RUDOLF FLESCH

Pick up any scientific journal and you'll find that all the papers in it have a family likeness: someone had an idea, tested it by experiment and came up with some findings.

That's the established pattern. Because of it, there's no room anywhere for publishing scientists' UNTESTED ideas — wild guesses, half-serious notions, flights of fancy, hunches, speculations, crazy stuff. Such things may be talked about during coffee breaks or late at night, but no scientist would ever think of offering them to the world in cold print.

* * *

But now a mathematician by name of Jack Good has come up with the craziest idea of them all: the idea of publishing a whole book that would contain nothing but this sort of thing—an "anthology of partly-baked ideas."

It's called The Scientist Speculates (Basic Books) and contains 123 items — each one of them guaranteed untested, wild, way out and wholly unfit for publication in a respectable scientific journal.

Many of the items are unintelligible to a layman but some of them are not.

Examples:

The editor, Jack Good, quotes a study of cigarette smoking showing that inhalers get lung cancer LESS OFTEN than non-inhalers. Could it be, he speculates, that "inhaling is positively correlated with butt-length?" Do inhalers put out their cigarettes before they get to the end with the harmful substances? Should we all—inhalers or no—avoid smoking cigarettes down to the bitter end?

* * *

A second scientist has an idea about eyeglasses. Why not, he writes, make glasses coated with thin plastic film on either side, to protect them from scratches?

A third plays with the idea of breeding super-useful, all-purpose plants. He dreams up a plant with potato-like tubers; stems that yield a jute-like fiber; edible leaves that furnish proteins, dyestuffs and antibiotics, and protein-rich seeds with a cotton-type covering.

A fourth is interested in the influence on wishing on the weather. "According to newspaper records," he writes, "there were 211 days when the sun did not appear by afternoon press-time at St. Petersburg, Fla., from 1910 through 1957. Only 11 of these days were Sundays." The odds against this happening by chance are 20,000 to 1. Could it be that it was caused by the combined desire of the inhabitants of St. Petersburg for sunny weekends?

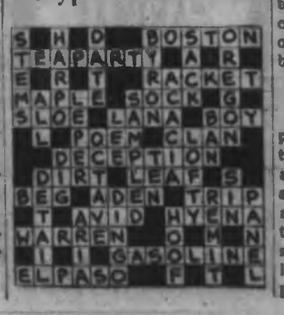

* * *

Fifth, there's an experimental psychologist who has some interesting thoughts about rats in a maze. We put those rats in a puzzling situation, he says, and call them poor learners if they're slow in finding the right solution. But should we? In real life (in contrast to a laboratory) problem situations are apt to be more like a game than a puzzle—that is, you're up against an opponent who may play tricks on you.

* * *

So maybe those rats in a maze who hesitate before each move are smarter than we think. Maybe they somehow KNOW they're playing a game against a psychologist. Maybe "the animal has a better grasp than the experimenter on the realities of its own daily life."

'Fine Group'

Victoria Pilots Praised

The three-member royal commission on pilotage had some good things to say about Victoria pilots in particular and B.C. pilots in general just before they left for Nanaimo yesterday.

WELL ORGANIZED

Victoria marine pilots "are working hard, are a very fine group and are very effective," commission chairman Mr. Justice Ives Bernier, superior court judge from Quebec City told The Daily Colonist yesterday.

"We can say that of all the pilots we have seen in B.C.," added commission member H. A. Renwick, retired pulp and paper executive from Vancouver. "They are very well organized."

R. K. Smith, Waterloo, Ont., former chairman National Harbor Board, agreed.

The three-man commission spent Sunday inspecting pilotage installations in Victoria, were in Nanaimo yesterday and are in Port Alberni today. They return to Vancouver tonight, will resume hearings in Newfoundland toward the end of the month.

"We are looking into all phases of pilotage," Judge Bernier said, "such as 'what is a pilot?' 'what is the picture across Canada'?"

DIFFERENT IN B.C.

The picture is different in B.C., he said, with two separate types, the coastal pilots and the Fraser River pilots.

"The Fraser River pilots have their own authority dating back to 1913," Mr. Renwick said. "They work only on the river."

Regarding the question of ship lanes through fishing grounds, Judge Bernier said, in the Fraser River, the harbor master goes in advance to warn fishermen of ship movements. "It is well taken care of," he said.

In the Juan de Fuca Strait "there is apparently no problem," he said. "The question was never raised here."

Purpose of the commission is to probe problems of Canadian marine pilots and to recommend any needed changes in the Canada Shipping Act concerning these problems.

Attempted Murder

Dootson Fit For Trial

An all-male Victoria assize court jury last night found Peter Howard Dootson fit to stand trial on a charge of attempted murder.

The jury deliberated for 10 minutes on whether Dootson was, by reason of insanity, unfit to stand trial.

Dootson, a psychiatric nurse's aide at the Colquitz Mental Home, is charged with the attemped murder Oct. 19 of Robert Robinson, 64, a fellow employee.

BLUNT INSTRUMENT

He is accused of attempting the murder with a blunt instrument and by setting fire to Robinson.

Four witnesses were called Monday, including three psychiatrists and the chief psychiatric nurse at the mental home.

DIMINISHED

Dr. Ian Kenning, who has been observing Dootson for the past week in the psychiatric ward of Jubilee Hospital, said Dootson had a diminished awareness of the implications of the charge.

He said Dootson does not always understand A causes B and is not always aware of his own actions in relation to other people.

AMNESIA CASE

He said Dootson was suffering from amnesia covering the time between a car accident in September, 1961, in which he suffered a fractured skull, and Oct. 19, 1962, the night of the attempt.

Red Cross Reject

Can't Give Blood Away

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Hector Bedard has too much of a good thing—blood.

He has so much that he tries to give it away. But now hospitals charge him for the withdrawals and the Red Cross is unwilling to accept his donations.

★ ★ ★

Bedard, 44, has polycythemia, a condition in which the body produces more blood than necessary.

When he learned this two years ago he began having a pint withdrawn every two months at Hartford hospital. Eventually the hospital began charging $7.50 for each visit.

Other hospitals also imposed a fee on the grounds that he was technically a patient instead of a regular blood donor.

His physician says Bedard's blood is acceptable for use in transfusions but the Red Cross doesn't want any of it.

★ ★ ★

"The mere fact that it is necessary for this man to have his blood taken," said Julius Early, director of the Connecticut Red Cross blood program, "makes him unacceptable to the Red Cross. The Red Cross is not qualified to practice medicine . . . in this case we would be competing with the medical profession."

Quebec Rails Blasted?

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker's whistle-stop campaign through Quebec was threatened by sabotage of a rail on the CNR line south of Quebec City Monday and delayed by fears of tampering with CPR tracks near here Monday night.

The prime minister was delayed more than 1½ hours for Monday night's scheduled rally at nearby Cap-de-la-Madeleine when the CPR ordered the speed of his train reduced to a maximum 15 miles an hour between Ste. Anne de la Parade and Trois-Rivieres.

Conductor C. L. McElligott said orders from Montreal warned the crew to "keep sharp lookout for possible defective track and approach facing points (switches) and bridges cautiously."

NAMELESS CALLER

An anonymous caller told The Canadian Press and RCMP in Quebec City earlier that the train carrying the prime minister would be blown up at Ste. Anne.

Ste. Anne is only about 20 miles north of Lemieux, where damaged CNR trucks were replaced Monday before a train carrying Mr. Diefenbaker from

Socreds Urge Moratorium On Elections

RED DEER, Alta. (CP) — Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson called Monday for a one-year moratorium on federal elections.

He said in an interview his party will support whatever government is elected in the April 8 election for at least one year, maybe longer.

"We can't have another election immediately," said the Social Credit leader, adding that some moratorium "will have to be declared."

Mr. Thompson repeated earlier predictions no party will win a majority in the coming vote.

Speech Delayed Nearly 15 Minutes

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liberal leader Pearson stood up to hundreds of foot-stomping, chanting, anti-nuclear demonstrators Monday night and made a speech after accusing them of trying to wreck the democratic process.

Pandemonium reigned in the cavernous Forum and he was unable to begin speaking for some time. Hundreds of cardboard pieplates and paper darts filled the air.

A "no nuclear arms" chant drowned him out.

But the Liberal chieftain, talking back to the organized demonstrators, finally got the upper hand and went on to pledge action to "put people back to work," a June budget and six other pieces of legislation as soon as parliament convenes — providing he is elected.

FOUND SUPPORT

He found his partisan support in the jammed, 7,200-seat Forum by getting resounding "no's" when he asked whether the crowd wanted Socialism, minority government or a breakup of the Western Alliance.

But at the outset anti-nuclear demonstrators stole the show. Cheers and boos drowned out those who attempted to speak. Fights broke out among the spectators. The combatants were hustled away by security guards.

PERRAULT RECKLED

Provincial Liberal leader Ray Perrault tried for five minutes to introduce Mr. Pearson. As Mr. Pearson walked on stage, 13 men sitting side-by-side high under the rafters at the far end of the Forum rose and swept back their jackets.

Each wore a white vest with a red letter spelling out the words: "No Nuclear Arms."

Cheers and boos rang out. Mr. Pearson stood silent. The crowd screamed "We want Mike." Photographers left the platform to photograph the crowd scenes.

DROWNED OUT

Three times Mr. Pearson called out over the microphones: "Mr. Chairman . . ." Each time the anti-nuclear group stood again for the cameras and again Mr. Pearson was drowned out by screams from the audience.

He said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I hope . . ." Then he said: "May I begin by saying . . ."

Twelve minutes later he was still trying to speak.

"The Liberal Party does not need the kind of support . . ." he said, then. "We want peace . . ." as only fragments of his words could be heard above the pandemonium.

WORKED FOR PEACE

When he could make himself heard about 15 minutes after striding to the platform, he shouted:

"I don't want to boast, but there's nobody in this audience tonight who has worked harder for peace over the years than I have. I have fought for it in peace and I'll go on fighting for it . . ."

The Forum, which usually holds 5,000 persons for hockey games, was ordered closed by the fire marshall one hour before Mr. Pearson arrived, with more than 7,200 in the building.

Outside half a dozen band-and-bomb contingents milled, augmented by a group of Sons of Freedom Doukhobors. Inside, party workers and firemen patrolled the crowds.

Much of the audience apparently came to heckle. Half an hour before Mr. Pearson appeared, noisemakers began to rattle in the stands. When the orchestra played a South American selection a voice yelled "How about Cuba?"

YANKEE DOODLE

The orchestra swung into show tunes and somebody yelled "Play Yankee Doodle."

The band played "With a Little Bit of Luck" and a heckler yelled "You'll need it."

In front of the stage were 15 press tables, all filled. Five newsreel camers recorded the Canada Another Cuba?

MONTREAL (CP) — New Democratic leader T. C. Douglas said Monday night the real reason the United States wants Canada to take nuclear warheads for Bomarc missiles is to establish the principle of nuclear arming in this country.

Then, he said, the Americans will have opened the door to pour more advanced nuclear carriers into Canada. This might lead to the introduction of offensive missiles and "it could make Canada a second Cuba in the world chess game."

Mr. Douglas laid heavy emphasis on the nuclear question in a 30-minute address to 4,000 boisterous supporters in the Paul Sauve Arena.

Police estimated the crowd at just over two-thirds of the arena's 5,700-seat capacity.

The NDP leader was carried into the hall on the shoulders of two husky supporters led by a blaring boys' band. The obviously partisan crowd, one of the noisiest Mr. Douglas has encountered in his campaign, gave him a wild welcome.

Italian Speculation

Khrushchev Slipping?

ROME (AP) — A Moscow dispatch to an Italian Communist newspaper aroused speculation Monday that Premier Khrushchev and the Soviet leadership are involved in serious internal trouble.

The dispatch from Moscow to the newspaper L'Unita says the Soviet capital is "living in a delicate political moment." The Communist newspaper does not mention Khrushchev by name, but spoke of "grave problems" and economic failures.

Two Italian news agencies, both reflecting opinion of Italy's Christian Democratic Party, report Khrushchev under mounting fire for his policies regarding Cuba, Communist China and Soviet agriculture.

IN MINORITY

The Roman Information Agency quotes Communist circles as saying Khrushchev recently had been put in a minority at the Kremlin by a group of opponents headed by Mikhail Suslov, member of the presidium of the Soviet Communist party cenetral committee. The agency says Communist circles felt Khrushchev might soon be ousted.

SPREADING WORD

Italia, the other agency carrying the reports, says Italian Communist deputies were spreading the word that Khrushchev was facing mounting opposition and losing supporters daily.

NO SIGN IN MOSCOW

In Moscow, informed western observers said there was no outward sign there that Khrushchev is in any particular difficulty.

He has been vacationing at the Black Sea since mid-March. Somalia ambassador Ahmed Mohammed Adan, who visited the premier Monday, said he "seemed very relaxed."

Raiders Near Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—An exile commando group reported Monday night that one of its raiding boats was nearing Cuban shores.

"The captain radioed us at 6 p.m. that the boat was 40 miles from Cuba and we assume it is completing its mission," said Dr. Orlando Bosch, co-ordinator general of the anti-Communist Cuban Escambray Front army.

Bosch said his group would file a legal protest that a companion boat was seized in international waters.

Bosch said the two boats left five days before the U.S. state department issued restrictions against raiders. Such restrictions were issued in Miami Saturday.

Laotian Leftist Assassinated

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Foreign Minister Quinim Pholsena was assassinated Monday night after attending a royal reception given by King Savang Vathana to promote peace among Laotian factions, government sources said today.

They said the left-leaning Quinim was shot down by unknown assassins while entering his home in downtown Vientiane.

His wife, at his side, was reported wounded in both legs by the assassins' bullets.

King Vathana in a speech had appealed to feuding Laotian factions to patch up their differences and strive to re-establish peace in this still divided country.

Quinim, 48, joined the coalition government last June as a member of Premier Souvanna Phouma's neutralist party. However, he created many enemies and became a controversial figure in Laotian politics by later following a leftist course.

He associated himself closely with the pro-Communist Pathet Lao faction.

Quinim had just returned to Laos with the king after visits in nine of the signatory countries of the Geneva accord guaranteeing Laos' neutrality.

He jumped on the bandwagon of Capt. Kong Le when that paratroop commander led a revolt against the Vientiane government in 1960. Since then Quinim had risen steadily while Kong Le's star faded.

Tidal Wave 35 Feet In Charlotte Islands

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—Reports reached here Monday of a 35-foot tidal wave that hit the remote west coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands, tore oil tanks from concrete bases and apparently took the life of a man.

Police were continuing their search for Heinz Carl Schnober, 31, believed lost at sea when his kayak capsized in the swell.

The tidal wave caused extensive damage at Weah Point near the village of Masset. Similar high seas also hit Langara Island, northernmost point in the isolated Charlottes.

Department of transport officials believe the wave originated in Bali, recently hit by volcanic eruptions, and sped across the north Pacific.

Syria Orders 18-Hour Curfew

DAMASCUS (AP) — The revolutionary council Monday clamped an 18-hour daily curfew throughout Syria to halt massive demonstrations by supporters of President Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Syrians scurried off the streets amid sub-machine-gun fire. Worried tourists kept to their hotels or fled to Lebanon.

Voters in Ontario Searching Souls

By SAMUEL LUBELL
(Seventh of a Series)

Perhaps the most dramatic single battle of this election campaign is being fought out in traditionally Conservative homes of Ontario.

In the suburbs of Toronto and Hamilton as well as the middle and better income sections of Kitchener and London a third of the Conservative voters I have interviewed talk of breaking against Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

Nothing like this degree of vote shifting is taking place anywhere else in the country.

Nowhere else, as well, have I found anywhere as much voter turmoil as in these hitherto staid and placidly Conservative families.

★ ★ ★

Often the person being interviewed would begin by lamenting, "This is a terrible election. We've never been so confused." or "In the past we always knew how we would vote. It's never been like this."

Then the objections to Mr. Diefenbaker would pour out:

"He's so irresponsible he makes me ashamed I am a Canadian."

"I can't stand to look at him on TV. He's always acting when he speaks."

"He's out on a limb sawing off our relations with the United States.

★ ★ ★

Some Conservative families are still bitterly divided.

In Guelph a doctor's wife said, "My husband is afraid instability in the government will wreck our economy, but I feel like a traitor voting Liberal."

"We don't want to kill off each other's vote," she added. "So we argue night after night. Still we can't agree."

★ ★ ★

Such reactions point to what has become the crucial struggle on which the election outcome hinges. To win a majority the Liberals must sweep 60 of Ontario's 85 seats, which would be more seats than the Liberals carried even at the peak of their political power.

Whether this can be done depends on how deep is the revolt against Mr. Diefenbaker among Ontario's normally Conservative voters.

This revolt is drawing fuel from three main sources: disagreement over the prime minister's economic policies, and budget deficits; a violent dislike of Mr. Diefenbaker personally, and a widely held concern that "he's fouling things up with the United States."

Fairly sharp economic lines fence off the defections against Mr. Diefenbaker. They run

But Who Ate the Jam?

Members of the Independent Athletic Association curling league wound up their season's activities last night with a "jam-can" bonspiel at Memorial Arena. They did it up in fine style, being "piped in" to start festivities on the ice and winding up at the clubrooms for the presentation of prizes.—(Bill Boucher)

Toe Whistles Bravely As Cemetery Beckons

Toe Blake still claims his Montreal Canadiens can beat Toronto Maple Leafs, but he is just about a minority of one.

To practically everyone else who saw Leafs win the first three games, the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final seems certain to end tonight when the teams meet in Montreal.

Blake, for publication at least, isn't conceding a thing.

"I think by the looks of the players, their actions and their attitude that they still think they can win one. We're not looking any further ahead than this game. We just plan to win that one."

Only one club—the Leafs—ever lost the first three games of any playoff series and came back to win. And Canadiens just aren't winning, no matter what set of figures you use. They have won only two of their last 11 games, and have lost seven straight Stanley Cup games.

COULDN'T HELP IT

"One thing, we're healthy," Blake said. Then, gloomily, "With the game they played Saturday, how could anyone get hurt?"

"I just wish somebody would tell me what's wrong. Their goalie hasn't been that good, and we led the league in scoring. I guess it's just been one of those years. We've been everything else but consistent. We tied 23 games in the season and never lost two in a row. Now we lose three straight."

Tonight's Montreal-Toronto game will be televised on Channels 2 and 6 starting at 6 p.m.

TO TRY ROOKIE

Canadiens have brought up forward Billy Sutherland from Quebec Aces, and he'll play tonight, but Blake hasn't decided whom he will replace. Leafs also made one change, bringing up defenceman Larry Hillman from Springfield to replace injured Johnny MacMillan.

While Blake cried the blues, Punch Imlach beamed over his Leafs. He took them home for the weekend "because three days in Montreal could be disastrous," and brought them back in top shape.

Neither Rudy Pilous of Chicago Black Hawks nor Sid Abel of Detroit Red Wings could make that statement. Both teams are hurting badly as they prepare for tonight's fourth game in Detroit.

LITTLE CHANGE

Bobby Hull's broken nose will keep him out of the Chicago lineup tonight and possibly Thursday. Defenceman Al MacNeil, who suffered two broken ribs in Thursday's game, may see limited action, but Ron Murphy's infected ankle will keep him out of action again tonight.

Red Wings must do without Vic Stasiuk, who has shoulder and jaw injuries and will be replaced by rookie Lowell MacDonald tonight.

Wings trail in the series, 2-1, but their performance in Sunday's 4-2 victory, plus the great play of Gordie Howe, has them convinced they'll tie things up tonight.

"We were a completely different team," Abel said. "We skated better than they did, and if it hadn't been for Glenn Hall, it would have been a rout. Now we know we can do it."

Pilous admitted that his club was simply outskated Sunday, but had a few words of warning for the Wings.

"This time we'll be skating all the way," he warned. "When we do, watch out."

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

It took nearly 11 hours for 160 players to complete 18 holes over Victoria Golf Club Sunday, which must be some sort of record for slow play.

Event was the qualifying round of the Vancouver Island match play open championship, and it left most of the players tired, frustrated and annoyed.

Players in the late shifts were taking about five and one-half hours to complete the 5,980-yard circuit. Last lot out—which included two experienced professionals, Joe Pryke and Bill Court—started at 1:12 and finished at 6:30.

What went wrong? Certainly there should be some sort of inquest to see that it doesn't happen again.

Victoria, with its tight fairways and jungle rough, means a lot of time consumed looking for lost balls under the best of circumstances. Rules allow a five-minute search each time, but while this may be claimed, it is also the responsibility of those holding up play to wave the next group through. This does not always appear to be done.

Situation at the third and fourth holes also created a lot of delay. With these two fairways running more or less as one, there were many hold-ups as players hesitated to hit as long as other players were within range—although they were playing another hole.

At one time there was a delay of more than an hour on the third tee, and it seemed to remain constant all day. Perhaps the district committee should have a marshal at this point in future events.

The seventh—first in a series of par-three holes—was another point of delay, although not as serious as the one at the third.

Lastly, and perhaps more important, there was evidence of extremely slow play almost from the start of the competition. First group off the tee made the circuit in a normal three and one-half hours, but the second group took an hour longer despite a warning from the local professional on the 15th that they were holding up the course.

Low handicappers who were out in the middle of the draw had perhaps the best of the weather, but they were in the middle of the slow period, and this may have accounted in some measure for the indifferent scoring.

Norm Boden may have avoided the jinx which decrees that the medalist never wins the championship, by sharing it with Fred Painter.

Boden and Painter rate as strong contenders. Others I like are Bill Wakeham, who I think is entitled to the favorite's role; Ron MacLeod because of his consistency, and Dick Munn because of his tremendous power.

These look like the powerhouse five, but there are one or two old war horses around—notably Art Donaldson, Bill McColl and Frank Scroggs.

* * *

Three holes in one were scored on local courses on the weekend. Ed Varga aced the second at Victoria; Frank Donegani holed out on the eighth on the same course, and Ed Cuppage made his ace on the seventh at Royal Colwood.

Second annual Canadian senior championship will be held at Royal Quebec Golf Club, Boischatel, Que., July 22-27. George Hevenor of Ontario won last year in Winnipeg.

Monthly meeting of the B.C. Golf Association directors will be held April 19 at Victoria Golf Club at 7:30 p.m.

Speaking Briefly

Bo in Trouble Again

Bo Belinsky, a lefthander with a wondering eye and, sometimes, a wandering fast-ball, is in trouble again.

The problem child of the Los Angeles Angels, who is being sued for $150,000 by a women who claims she was pushed out of his car last year, turned up late for a practice session over the week-end. Manager Bill Rigney immediately announced a fine, reported to be $500, was in the offing for Belinsky and his pal, Dean Chance, who was also late—because he was with Belinsky.

Watched by his current girl friend, actress Mamie Van Doren, Belinsky was tagged with the loss Sunday as the Angels took a 9-3 trimming from Houston Colts. But Belinsky was philosophical about it all.

"Let's face it," he said of himself and Chance, "we're just exciting news—like the atomic bomb."

Fielder Barely Makes It To Sixth Scoring Title

He slowed down a bit in the last week and was almost caught but Guyle Fielder is the Western Hockey League scoring champion for the sixth time in 11 seasons.

The 32-year-old Seattle centre didn't get 20 goals but his playmaking gave him a league-leading 80 assists for 97 points. It was just enough to beat out Nick Mickoski, 35-year-old San Francisco forward, who closed with a rush to finish with 95 points. Mickoski got nine points in the final week while Fielder missed his fourth 100-point season by getting only two points in the last two weeks.

Seattle's Bob Barlow, playing, of course, on Fielder's line, led goal-scorers with 47 scoring shots. Fielder's other wingman, Jim Powers, had 36 goals. It gave Seattle's top line an even 100 goals and 146 assists.

The WHL had prolific scorers by the dozen, no less than 14 players getting at least 30 goals and four going past 40.

Sunday scores: Spokane 2 at Portland 5; Vancouver 4 at Seattle 1.

Vancouver Canucks, the team most generally conceded to be the least likely to succeed before the season opened, Sunday won the Northern Division championship in the Western Hockey League by defeating Seattle Totems, 4-1, before a turnaway crowd of 7,713 Seattle fans.

Victory gave Canucks a bye in the playdowns and forced Totems to tackle Edmonton Flyers in a best-of-three quarter-final, starting Wednesday night in Seattle. Winners will meet Canucks in the semi-finals for the right to play in the league final against the Southern Division playoff survivors.

In the southern half of the league, Los Angeles Blades and San Francisco Seals meet in a best-of-three quarter-final with the winner taking on Portland Buckaroos in the other semi-final.

Port Alberni Quartet Wins Primary Event

PORT ALBERNI — Rinks from New Westminster, Campbell River and Vancouver all won events at the annual mixed bonspiel at the Alberni Valley Curling Club but top honors went to a Port Alberni quartet.

Edna Souther, supported by Wayne Reid, Helen Hiskey and Chuck Turgeon, won five games in a row to take the "A" event. She defeated Verna Hartt's Port Alberni rink, 17-7, in the final.

Judy Morgan of New Westminster, who had Sybil Magnusson of Port Alberni doing the skipping, won the "B" event by beating Pearl Muir of Nanaimo in the final. L. Monteith of Campbell River outscored Margaret Olson of Port Alberni in the "C" final and Dorothy Fukuyama of Victoria skipped the Jefferson entry from Vancouver to a win over Polly Dorofoy of Port Alberni in the "D" final.

Victoria West, needing a victory to make the top four, lost, 2-1, to first-place Gorge and finished fifth. Gorge, Kickers, Canadian Scottish and Brodies will begin playoffs next weekend.

HEANEYS LEAD

Heaneys, fighting to avoid relegation to the second division, beat Eddys, 3-1, Sunday in the opening game of their best-of-three series.

Kurt Lampert and Larry Johnston scored for Gorge and Leo Livingston got the goal for Wests, who lost their big chance when Whitey Wakelyn missed a penalty try with the score tied, 1-1.

Barry Cosier got two goals and Ron Pederson one for Heaneys. Eddys, beaten only twice this season, got their only goal from Chris Braun.

PPCLI beat HMCS Naden, 5-1, and Kings downed Victoria Press, 2-1, in Sunday's second division Commission Cup matches. PPCLI leads the round-robin event with a 3-0 record and Kings are 2-1.

Floor Irks Erland, But Fans Satisfied

By JIM TAYLOR

Erland Kops is the best badminton player in the world, and he's got the championships to prove it. But Kops was an angry young man last night, because he could not show Victoria fans his best.

"I'm disappointed, really annoyed," he told reporters as he paced tiger-fashion around his dressing room at Esquimalt Sports Centre. "What kind of a place is this to play badminton? What kind of a show can you give the people?"

Kops, Robert McCoig of Scotland and Chanarong and Sangob of Thailand, were here on one stop of a tour sponsored by the Canadian Badminton Association. Local officials, anticipating a crowd that never materialized (the matches drew 600) booked it at the Sports Centre because they felt Racquet Club facilities were inadequate.

It proved to be a mistake. The concrete floor was slippery, the ceiling too low. The lighting, excellent for hockey, was poor for badminton.

McCoig and the Thailanders were noncommittal. Kops was not, perhaps because he had just lost 15-12, 15-9 to Sangob, a player he beats with monotonous regularity.

"You see, I am expected to put on the best match," he explained when he had cooled down, "But I slip all over the floor and I cannot play my best because I cannot take a chance.

"I have a piece of cartilage floating in my right knee. I must be careful. If I slip and fall, I am through."

Kops has the pride of the champion. He obviously hates to lose. But even more obviously he hates to put on a mediocre show.

"It is all wrong," he said. "If I do not play my best tonight, then I send 300 or 600 people home unhappy. That is wrong. But if I take a chance and get hurt, what about the 2,000 or 3,000 people on the rest of the tour? So I can't take that chance.

"The best part of these tours is to come and play, then go away for a couple of years, come back, and see how much progress the game has made. What's the use of trying for a big crowd here to build up the game if those people are not satisfied with what they see? When we come back again, they will remember. won't they?"

Actually, Kops needn't have worried. Though the play might not have been up to what he considered tournament excellence, it appeared more than satisfying to the spectators.

They gave all four players rousing hands as Chanarong beat McCoig, 15-5, 5-15, 15-9; Sangob downed Kops, and McVoing and Kops took the Thailanders, 16-18, 15-10, 15-9 in doubles.

Kops and McCoig expressed delight at the rising interest in badminton they have noticed since they last toured Canada in 1960. They had special words of praise for Vancouver's Wayne Macdonnell, who rates "world class" in their book.

"Badminton is obviously growing more popular here," Kops said. "And I really felt like playing tonight. But I'm not going to break my leg on their floor. It's too bad. It's a shame."

Seals Lose To Blades

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Blades surprised San Francisco Seals Monday night in the opening games of their Western Hockey League quarter-final series by skating to an 8-2 win before 5,160 fans.

Rookie Harold White led the Blades with two goals and an assist while Willie O'Ree, Gordie Haworth, Stan Maxwell, Leo LaBine, Bob Solinger and Lloyd Haddon each scored once. Danny Belisle and Al Nicholson scored for Seals, runners-up in the Southern Division.

Second game of the best-of-three series is in San Francisco on Wednesday night.

Howe Bests Hall In Brilliant Duel

DIDN'T ACT AGE

Celebrating his 35th birthday with one of his greatest displays of hockey craft, Howe scored his third goal of the playdowns to tie the score at 1-1, started the play for the goal which made it 2-2 and made the shot which caused the rebound which Alex Faulkner flipped into the nets to provide the Wings with what was to be the winning goal.

Howe was the dominant figure on the ice as the Wings outplayed the Hawks but almost lost because goalkeeper Glenn Hall came up with a stupendous display of puck-blocking, backed up by some amazing luck on six occasions when shots which had him beaten hit one of the uprights.

Back on home ice after 5-4 and 5-2 setbacks in Chicago which had them facing virtual elimination, the Wings poured it on from the start.

They hit hard, carried the play—and got nowhere as Hall balked them at every turn. When the first period was over, the Hawks had managed six shots at Terry Sawchuk, the Wings had taken 17 at Hall and the score was 1-0 for Chicago.

The goal was scored by Stan Mikita, and it was the seventh goal out of the 11 the Hawks had at that time which was scored with the Wings playing shorthanded.

The pattern was the same for the first 10 minutes of the second period. Then Howe got a sudden break on the right side at the centre line and the big winger finished it off in his usual effortless style. He moved in to the centre fast enough to stay ahead of pursuers, picked his spot from about 15 feet and blasted the puck right through Hall's pads.

But even that wasn't to be the turning point. Seven minutes later, the Hawks broke away from a ganging attack and with the Detroit defence slipping on the play Mikita put Hawks ahead, 2-1.

Then Hawks' Ab McDonald got a penalty and the Wings started again. Howe got the puck back to Howie Young, who was used only on power plays, and Young drove a shot at Hall. Parker MacDonald was in the right spot to get the rebound and push it behind Hall in the last minute of the period.

MADE IT INEVITABLE

Howe led the Wings in the third-period attack which produced the winning and insurance goals. He made passes, was robbed three times in three seconds by Hall on point-blank shots, stickhandled through for a backhander that Hall blocked and, finally, got a shot away that Hall didn't smother or turn off into a corner. Faulkner nipped in quickly to get at the rebound and the Wings were ahead to stay.

Island Chambers

Salmon Run Spurs Worry

The declining salmon run is a major worry of Chambers of Commerce, it was indicated in resolutions submitted for consideration Friday and Saturday by the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island.

Also prominent among about 25 resolutions submitted so far are requests for extension and improvement of highways in various parts of the Island.

Resolutions for the annual meeting, to be held in Courtenay, come from chambers all the way from Victoria to Alert Bay.

Resolutions from the Victoria and the Campbell River and district chambers oppose proposed treaty changes which would allow the Japanese fishing fleet to take herring off the Queen Charlotte Islands.

They also call for a 12-mile limit for territorial waters for fishing purposes.

BIG CHANGES

The Victoria resolution endorses a brief by the Amalgamated Conservation Society calling for sweeping changes in fisheries regulations.

Chambers at Port Hardy, Alert Bay and Sointula jointly urge completion of the Island Highway to Port Hardy in the near future and a number of other resolutions ask improvements in road, highways and ferry service in various places.

OTHER TONGUES

Another resolution suggests the B.C. Government Travel Bureau consider publishing tourist promotion literature in French and Spanish.

Parks and boat launching ramps at various Island points also are requested.

HIGHWAY

The case for extending the Island Highway to Port Hardy will be discussed by Alan M. Maclean, formerly of Painter's Lodge, Campbell River, at a meeting of a chamber of commerce group Thursday.

The meeting of the transportation and harbor group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce begins at 12 noon at the Colonial Inn.

Talk Clubs Pick Two

Winner of the annual debating contest of Southern Vancouver Island Toastmasters International clubs is the team of Bill German and Tony Albang, representing Beaver Toastmasters 790, Victoria.

Taking the negative side on the resolution "that B.C. have a government-sponsored medicare plan," they defeated Peter Young and Ralph White of Pacific Meridian 1811, Victoria, in finals last night.

Island Candidates At Nanaimo Forum

NANAIMO — Conservative candidate for Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands, W. F. (Bus) Matthews said at a three-party forum over the weekend that the Diefenbaker government had introduced increased commercial fishing loans, expanded technical and vocational training, increased the provincial share of income taxes, low cost housing and many other measures.

Liberal candidate Douglas Greer said that part of the Liberal plan to meet the demand for 250,000 new jobs annually will be to encourage the export of more finished products to the United States.

NDP candidate Colin Cameron said that the acquisition of nuclear arms by Canada will not affect the balance in the slightest degree.

Social Credit candidate Douglas Kane was not present at the meeting.

Port Alberni Wish Nearer

PORT ALBERNI — A long-standing wish of city council seems about to be fulfilled.

Council was told last night that government surveyors have arrived in Port Alberni and begun work on rebuilding and relocation of River Road portion of the West Coast Road — something that has been sought by council for years.

Nanaimo Boy Dies in Swamp

NANAIMO—A small boy's dog came home dripping wet in Wellington Monday, shortly after police had been notified the boy was missing. Following an intensive search Gregory Arthur Sheepwash, age 2½, was found drowned.

The boy's body was found lying face down in a swamp just behind the Sheepwash home.

Comox-Powell River

Tenders to Be Called For $500,000 Ferry

Tenders will be called immediately for a $500,000 ferry to link Comox with Powell River by way of Texada Island, a government spokesman announced yesterday.

Comox Social Credit MLA Dan Campbell said the B.C. highways department has agreed to build a 25-car, 300-passenger vessel and hopes to have it in operation on the run by late this year.

SUBSIDY SOUGHT

The department will seek a 40 per cent federal ship-building subsidy for the ferry.

Fares are to be the same as for the B.C. Ferries route between Nanaimo and Horseshoe Bay.

Mr. Campbell said the department has agreed to provide a second vessel if the first one proves inadequate.

At present no ferry operates over the route, but a small ferry links Texada with Powell River.

TWO DAILY TRIPS

The new vessel will make two daily round trips.

Mr. Campbell said the new service will have a major impact on the north-Island tourist industry by providing a new circle tour linking with Vancouver.

He thought many tourists would use the Campbell River-Comox link for one leg of a journey and use the Nanaimo-Horseshoe Bay route for the other. It could also attract more tourists from the lower Island because they could now leave the Island from the Courtenay-Comox area without retracing their steps.

Mr. Campbell said the new ferry would also bolster the Comox Valley dairy industry and Courtenay-Comox service industries by providing them with access to the Texada-Powell River markets.

LADYSMITH—An action for damages resulting from injury to a two-year-old Black Point girl while she was a patient in Ladysmith General Hospital has been settled out of court, it was announced Monday.

The settlement, approved in B.C. Supreme Court chambers in Vancouver, awards Linda Susan Sturgeon $10,455.

At the time of the accident, in September, 1961, Linda was four months old and receiving steam treatment for a respiratory ailment.

It is believed she reached from her crib and pulled the steam apparatus, suffering second-degree burns that required skin grafting to her right arm, neck and face.

Toll Reaches Nine

Police Name Crash Victims

The two victims of an Interurban Road car crash Saturday were identified by police Monday as Lloyd Billy, 34, of Nooksack, Wash., and Mrs. Joan Patricia Sylvester, 19, of Brentwood.

Police said Mr. Billy drove the car which left the road at high speed and somersaulted into a ditch. He was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital. Mrs. Sylvester died shortly after being admitted to hospital.

The deaths boosted Greater Victoria's 1963 traffic death toll to nine.

FAIRLY GOOD

Mrs. Sylvester's husband, Vincent, 23, is still in Royal Jubilee Hospital where he is reported to be in "fairly good" condition with multiple injuries.

Isadore Tom, 21, of Bellingham, only other person in the car, was released from hospital Sunday following treatment for multiple lacerations.

HIT ROCK BANK

Mr. Billy and Mr. Tom were visiting the Sylvesters at the time.

Their car was travelling south on Interurban about one-half mile south of West Saanich Road when it hit a rock bank and went out of control.

The car careened along the road for 100 feet and hit a guard rail above the deep ditch. It lurched along the brink of the ditch, knocking out 50 feet of wooden railing, and plunged in.

FLIPPED OVER

The car continued 70 feet through the ditch before it hit a rock bank over a culvert and flipped over on its back.

Mr. Billy was pinned beneath the car. The other three occupants were thrown from the vehicle.

The death car was so badly battered that wreckers had to use dollies under the rear wheels to remove it. The front end was smashed and the whole vehicle flattened.

SURVIVORS

Mrs. Sylvester is survived by her husband and three children, Cecelia, Allie and Ronald, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Smith, all of Brentwood.

Prayers will be offered in Sands Memorial Chapel of Chimes, 1903, Quadra, at 7:30 p.m. today. Mass will be celebrated in Our Lady of the Assumption Church, West Saanich, at 10 a.m. Wednesday. Interment will take place in West Saanich Cemetery.

There will be no inquest.

Two German frigates, the Graf Spee and the Hipper, arrived in Esquimalt harbor Monday, docking at the government jetty.

The frigates are on a cadet training cruise which started in Kiel, Germany, January 22, and will end at that port June 22.

The ships are former Royal Navy frigates of the Black Swan class. The Graf Spee was launched in 1938 as HMS Flamingo and the Hipper in 1946 as HMS Actaeon.

Each ship is carrying 80 cadets and at the end of the cruise will have travelled 22,000 miles.

The ships leave Esquimalt Wednesday for Vancouver, then start their return journey to Germany.

Walk the Year Round

Winner's Way to Stay Fit

* * *

Tramp, tramp, tramp along the highways and byways all year round if you want to get fit and stay fit, Colonist Walkathon winner Alan Valiant advised last night.

"Walking frequently is about the cheapest and easiest way to keep fit," he said, "rather than make one major walk and then rest your aching muscles."

* * *

Alan is feeling fine after his gruelling 50-mile walk in less than 10 hours, but he stressed it was because he was fit and trained to begin with.

"Gordon Hartley was my coach—he coached three out of the first four walkers home—and he warned me not to go out training day after day, eight miles one day and nine miles the next.

* * *

"He told me to do nine miles one day and rest the next.

"And another thing, he told me to soak my feet in salt water to harden them. That's why I didn't get any blisters.

"Day and night, for 10 days before the Walkathon, I went down to the Dallas Road waterfront and soaked my feet in the water."

* * *

Alan's training paid off in more ways than one. Now his muscles are loose, with no aches.

He also added his voice to a suggestion that has been made by many of the contestants—aching muscles, blisters and all:

They want the Walkathon made an annual event.

How do they feel two days after walking farther than they have ever walked before? Here are some comments:

* * *

'Army' Aided

To preserve his amateur standing, Alan Valiant will receive a trophy and a memento and has asked The Daily Colonist to donate the rest of the $100 first prize to the Salvation Army.

An amended list of winners will be published in The Daily Colonist this week.

* * *

ALAN VALIANT
. . . no blisters

Joachim Kaldenberg: "My feet are getting over it and my muscles are a little sore. I was thinking I wouldn't be surprised if you had one every year, but I think there should be two divisions to separate the trained athletes from the untrained walkers."

* * *

Cresswell Chorneley: "I'm not too bad, actually. My legs are just a little stiff and my feet are a little sore still. I think it would be a good idea to have one next year. It would get everyone interested in keeping fit and sports activities."

* * *

Greg Hellyer: "I took a hot bath when I got home, right away. Just my feet are a bit sore. Are you going to have another one next year?"

* * *

Jonathan Churchill: "Well I've tired feet. It would be wonderful if it was an annual event."

* * *

Michael Sampson: "It was a very good effort on the Colonist's part. I would certainly take part in anything you have to offer at any other time. I'm feeling a little 'leggy' today. I went right after the walkathon for a rubdown."

* * *

Mrs. E. Fern Irvine: "I'm not even stiff today. I got up early yesterday—at 5 a.m.—and walked about seven miles around Brentwood in five hours so I wouldn't be stiff. I got lost behind the air port Saturday but I guess I walked about 25 miles in all. This time of year is so pretty I'd like to see it made an annual event."

The contestants also had one thing more in common—they all said they'd do it again if they got the chance.

Motor carrier which will replace ever-popular Queenie to carry out chores at Beacon Hill Park is tried out by Paul Sigler of 2211 Ida. The $1,200 vehicle is expected to speed up operations and make them more efficient but, to the many children who have come to know Queenie, cart is step in wrong direction.

$2.50 a Day Pay Goal!

NANAIMO — A Colonist story on miners asking an increase from $2.25 per day to $3.50 a day has been turned up by a Nanaimo woman.

Mrs. Mary Rock found the newspaper clipping, which lacked a date, in the pages of an old book. The story pointed out the miners were urging the increase because throughout the province miners were being paid "$3 and $3.50 a day for eight hours."

Nanaimo Talk

Magic Word: Hovercraft

NANAIMO (Special)—From downtown Nanaimo to downtown Vancouver in just under an hour?

Many people here are asking if this is possible, and the magic word is "Hovercraft."

The Hovercraft crops up during morning coffee breaks, on street corners and in beer parlors and will soon crop up in city council.

The new British craft, which has been successfully tested in open water conditions, can carry 66 passengers on its "cushion of air" at speeds up to 72 knots.

FOR ARCTIC

The craft is being tested by a Montreal company for Arctic conditions.

Nanaimo residents talk wishfully of the Hovercraft going into service here. Anything that offers to cut the time from here to Vancouver by two-thirds is at least worth dreaming about. Mayor Pete Maffeo said Monday council would welcome a demonstration of the Hovercraft here.

An alderman, who wants to check into the Hovercraft data a little more "before sticking his neck out" said he will almost certainly propose to council that it ask for a demonstration here.

WOULD HELP

Should the demonstration cost anything, he said, he felt sure surrounding communities would help in the interest of investigating a possible speedier service to and from the mainland.

If the Hovercraft proved suitable to the needs of this community, the CPR and B.C. Government Ferries would be given the results of the test and urged to bring the Hovercraft into service here.

Sproat Lake Arm

New Debris Found In Hunt for Plane

PORT ALBERNI — A few more bits of debris that floated to the surface of Two Rivers Arm of Sproat Lake Monday were all that was found in a continuing search for a missing pilot and plane.

A small plane piloted by Richard Hansen, 30, of Vancouver, has been identified as one that plunged into the lake last Thursday.

Royal Canadian Navy divers, with Search and Rescue and RCMP representatives, have been dragging the waters since with no more results than small pieces of wreckage. Water in the arm is believed to be very deep.

Dragging will continue today.

Attempted Murder

Dootson Fit For Trial

An all-male Victoria assize court jury last night found Peter Howard Dootson fit to stand trial on a charge of attempted murder.

The jury deliberated for 90 minutes on whether Dootson was, by reason of insanity, unfit to stand trial.

Dootson, a psychiatric nurse's aide at the Colquitz Mental Home, is charged with the attemped murder Oct. 19 of Robert Robinson, 64, a fellow employee.

BLUNT INSTRUMENT

He is accused of attempting the murder with a blunt instrument and by setting fire to Robinson.

Four witnesses were called Monday, including three psychiatrists and the chief psychiatric nurse at the mental home.

DIMINISHED

Dr. Ian Kenning, who has been observing Dootson for the past week in the psychiatric ward of Jubilee Hospital, said Dootson had a diminished awareness of the implications of the charge.

He said Dootson does not always understand A causes B and is not always aware of his own actions in relation to other people.

AMNESIA CASE

He said Dootson was suffering from amnesia covering the time between a car accident in September, 1961, in which he suffered a fractured skull, and Oct. 19, 1962, the night of the attempt.

Red Cross Reject

Can't Give Blood Away

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Hector Bedard has too much of a good thing—blood.

He has so much that he tries to give it away. But now hospitals charge him for the withdrawals and the Red Cross is unwilling to accept his donations.

* * *

Bedard, 44, has polycythemia, a condition in which the body produces more blood than necessary.

When he learned this two years ago he began having a pint withdrawn every two months at Hartford hospital. Eventually the hospital began charging $7.50 for each visit.

Other hospitals also imposed a fee on the grounds that he was technically a patient instead of a regular blood donor.

His physician says Bedard's blood is acceptable for use in transfusions but the Red Cross doesn't want any of it.

* * *

"The mere fact that it is necessary for this man to have his blood taken," said Julius Early, director of the Connecticut Red Cross blood program, "makes him unacceptable to the Red Cross. The Red Cross is not qualified to practice medicine . . . in this case we would be competing with the medical profession."

Quebec Rails Blasted?

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker's whistle-stop campaign through Quebec was threatened by sabotage of a rail on the CNR line south of Quebec City Monday and delayed by fears of tampering with CPR tracks near here Monday night.

The prime minister was delayed more than 1½ hours for Monday night's scheduled rally at nearby Cap-de-la-Madeleine when the CPR ordered the speed of his train reduced to a maximum 15 miles an hour between Ste. Anne de la Perade and Trois-Rivieres.

Conductor C. L. McElligott said orders from Montreal warned the crew to "keep sharp lookout for possible defective track and approach facing points (switches) and bridges cautiously."

NAMELESS CALLER

An anonymous caller told The Canadian Press and RCMP in Quebec City earlier that the train carrying the prime minister would be blown up at Ste. Anne.

Ste. Anne is only about 20 miles north of Lemieux, where damaged CNR tracks were replaced Monday before a train carrying Mr. Diefenbaker from

Socreds Urge Moratorium On Elections

RED DEER, Alta. (CP) — Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson called Monday for a one-year moratorium on federal elections.

He said in an interview his party will support whatever government is elected in the April 8 election for at least one year, maybe longer.

"We can't have another election immediately," said the Social Credit leader, adding that some moratorium "will have to be declared."

Mr. Thompson repeated earlier predictions no party will win a majority in the coming vote.

Speech Delayed Nearly 15 Minutes

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liberal leader Pearson stood up to hundreds of foot-stomping, chanting, anti-nuclear demonstrators Monday night and made a speech after accusing them of trying to wreck the democratic process.

Pandemonium reigned in the cavernous Forum and he was unable to begin speaking for some time. Hundreds of cardboard pieplates and paper darts filled the air. A "no nuclear arms" chant drowned him out.

But the Liberal chieftain, talking back to the organized demonstrators, finally got the upper hand and went on to pledge action to "put people back to work," a June budget and six other pieces of legislation as soon as parliament convenes — providing he is elected.

FOUND SUPPORT

He found his partizan support in the jammed, 7,200-seat Forum by getting resounding "no's" when he asked whether the crowd wanted Socialism, minority government or a breakup of the Western Alliance.

But at the outset anti-nuclear demonstrators stole the show. Cheers and boos drowned out those who attempted to speak. Fights broke out among the spectators. The combatants were hustled away by security guards.

PERRAULT HECKLED

Provincial Liberal leader Ray Perrault tried for five minutes to introduce Mr. Pearson. As Mr. Pearson walked on stage, 13 men sitting side-by-side high under the rafters at the far end of the Forum rose and swept back their jackets.

Each wore a white vest with a red letter spelling out the words: "No Nuclear Arms."

Cheers and boos rang out. Mr. Pearson stood silent. The crowd screamed "We want Mike." Photographers left the platform to photograph the crowd scenes.

DROWNED OUT

Three times Mr. Pearson called out over the microphones: "Mr. Chairman . . ." Each time the anti-nuclear group stood again for the cameras and again Mr. Pearson was drowned out by screams from the audience.

He said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I hope . . ." Then he said: "May I begin by saying . . ."

Twelve minutes later he was still trying to speak.

"The Liberal Party does not need the kind of support . . ." he said, then, "We want peace . . ." as only fragments of his words could be heard above the pandemonium.

WORKED FOR PEACE

When he could make himself heard about 15 minutes after striding to the platform, he shouted:

"I don't want to boast, but there's nobody in this audience tonight who has worked harder for peace over the years than I have. I have fought for it in peace and I'll go on fighting for it . . ."

The Forum, which usually holds 5,880 persons for hockey games, was ordered closed by the fire marshall one hour before Mr. Pearson arrived, with more than 7,200 in the building.

Outside half a dozen band-borne contingents totalling augmented by a group of Sons of Freedom Doukhobors. Inside, party workers and firemen patrolled the crowds.

Much of the audience apparently came to heckle. Half an hour before Mr. Pearson appeared, noisemakers began to rattle in the stands. When the orchestra played a South American selection a voice yelled "How about Cuba?"

YANKEE DOODLE

The orchestra swung into show tunes and somebody yelled "Play Yankee Doodle."

The band played "With a Little Bit of Luck" and a heckler yelled "You'll need it."

In front of the stage were 15 press tables, all filled. Five newsreel camers recorded the Canada Another Cuba?

MONTREAL (CP) — New Democratic leader T. C. Douglas said Monday night the real reason the United States wants Canada to take nuclear warheads for Bomarc missiles is to establish the principle of nuclear arming in this country.

Then, he said, the Americans will have opened the door to pour more advanced nuclear carriers into Canada. This might lead to the introduction of offensive missiles and "it could make Canada a second Cuba in the world chess game."

Mr. Douglas laid heavy emphasis on the nuclear question in a 30-minute address to 5,000 boisterous supporters in the Paul Sauve Arena.

Police estimated the crowd at just over two-thirds of the arena's 5,700-seat capacity.

The NDP leader was carried into the hall on the shoulders of two husky supporters led by a blaring boys' band. The obviously partisan crowd, one of the noisiest Mr. Douglas has encountered in his campaign, gave him a wild welcome.

Italian Speculation

Khrushchev Slipping?

ROME (AP) — A Moscow dispatch to an Italian Communist newspaper aroused speculation Monday that Premier Khrushchev and the Soviet leadership are involved in serious internal trouble.

The dispatch from Moscow to the newspaper L'Unita says the Soviet capital is "living in a delicate political moment." The Communist newspaper does not mention Khrushchev by name, but spoke of "grave problems" and economic failures.

Two Italian news agencies, both reflecting opinion of Italy's Christian Democratic Party, report Khrushchev under mounting fire for his policies regarding Cuba, Communist China and Soviet agriculture.

IN MINORITY

The Roman Information Agency quotes Communist circles as saying Khrushchev recently had been put in a minority at the Kremlin by a group of opponents headed by Mikhail Suslov, member of the presidium of the Soviet Communist party central committee. The agency says Communist circles felt Khrushchev might soon be ousted.

SPREADING WORD

Italia, the other agency carrying the reports, says Italian Communist deputies were spreading the word that Khrushchev was facing mounting opposition and losing supporters daily.

NO SIGN IN MOSCOW

In Moscow, informed western observers said there was no outward sign there that Khrushchev is in any particular difficulty.

He has been vacationing at the Black Sea since mid-March. Somalia ambassador Ahmed Mohammed Adan, who visited the premier Monday, said he "seemed very relaxed."

Laotian Leftist Assassinated

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Foreign Minister Quinim Pholsena was assassinated Monday night after attending a royal reception given by King Savang Vathana to promote peace among Laotian factions, government sources said today.

They said the left-leaning Quinim was shot down by unknown assassins while entering his home in downtown Vientiane.

His wife, at his side, was reported wounded in both legs by the assassins' bullets.

King Vathana in a speech had appealed to feuding Laotian factions to patch up their differences and strive to re-establish peace in this still divided country.

Quinim, 48, joined the coalition government last June as a member of Premier Souvanna Phouma's neutralist party. However, he created many enemies and became a controversial figure in Laotian politics by later following a leftist course.

He associated himself closely with the pro-Communist Pathet Lao faction.

Quinim had just returned to Laos with the king after visits to nine of the signatory countries of the Geneva accord guaranteeing Laos' neutrality.

He jumped on the bandwagon of Capt. Kong Le when that paratroop commander led a revolt against the Vientiane government in 1960. Since then Quinim had risen steadily while Kong Le's star faded.

Raiders Near Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—An exile commando group reported Monday night that one of its raiding boats was nearing Cuban shores.

"The captain radioed us at 6 p.m. that the boat was 40 miles from Cuba and we assume it is completing its mission," said Dr. Orlando Bosch, co-ordinator general of the anti-Communist Cuban Escambray Front army.

Bosch said his group would file a legal protest that a companion boat was seized in international waters.

Bosch said the two boats left five days before the U.S. state department issued restrictions against raiders. Such restrictions were issued in Miami Saturday.

Tidal Wave 35 Feet In Charlotte Islands

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—Reports reached here Monday of a 35-foot tidal wave that hit the remote west coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands, tore oil tanks from concrete bases and apparently took the life of a man.

Police were continuing their search for Heinz Carl Schnober, 31, believed dead at sea when his kayak capsized in the swell.

The tidal wave caused extensive damage at Weah Point near the village of Masset. Similar high seas also hit Langara Island, northernmost point in the isolated Charlottes.

Department of transport officials believe the wave originated in Bali, recently hit by volcanic eruptions, and sped across the north Pacific.

Syria Orders 18-Hour Curfew

DAMASCUS (AP) — The revolutionary council Monday clamped an 18-hour daily curfew throughout Syria to halt massive demonstrations by supporters of President Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Syrians scurried off the streets amid sub-machine-gun fire. Worried tourists kept to their hotels or fled to Lebanon.

By SAMUEL LUBELL
(Seventh of a Series)

Perhaps the most dramatic single battle of this election campaign is being fought out in traditionally Conservative homes of Ontario.

In the suburbs of Toronto and Hamilton as well as the middle and better income sections of Kitchener and London a third of the Conservative voters I have interviewed talk of breaking against Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

Nothing like this degree of vote shifting is taking place anywhere else in the country.

Nowhere else, as well, have I found anywhere as much voter turmoil as in these hitherto staid and placidly Conservative families.

* * *

Often the person being interviewed would begin by lamenting, "This is a terrible election. We've never been so confused," or "In the past we always knew how we would vote. It's never been like this."

Then the objections to Mr. Diefenbaker would pour out:

"He's so irresponsible he makes me ashamed I am a Canadian."

"I can't stand to look at him on TV. He's always acting when he speaks."

"He's out on a limb sawing off our relations with the United States.

* * *

Some Conservative families are still bitterly divided.

In Guelph a doctor's wife said, "My husband is afraid instability in the government will wreck our economy, but I feel like a traitor voting Liberal."

"We don't want to kill off each other's vote," she added. "So we argue night after night. Still we can't agree."

* * *

Such reactions point to what has become the crucial struggle on which the election outcome hinges. To win a majority the Liberals must sweep 80 of Ontario's 85 seats, which would be more seats than the Liberals carried even at the peak of their political power.

Whether this can be done depends on how deep is the revolt against Mr. Diefenbaker among Ontario's normally Conservative voters.

This revolt is drawing fuel from three main sources: disagreement over the prime minister's economic policies and budget deficits; a violent dislike of Mr. Diefenbaker personally, and a widely held concern that "he's fouling things up with the United States."

Fairly sharp economic lines fence off the defections against Mr. Diefenbaker. They run
